Massive Police Hunt for Cottekill Killer

By CARL GRAHAM

COTTEKILL — A massive State Police manhunt is underway for the killer who strangled 67-year-old Mrs. Alice Upright Tuesday night in her home on Cottekill Road.

Ulster County District Attorney Francis J. Vogt called it "the most brutal slaying I've seen in my 20 years of police work."

Mrs. Upright's bound body was discovered on the living room floor of her two-story frame home Wednesday morning, one day before she would have been 68 years old. Her hands and feet were bound and she had been severly beaten about the right side of her head, police said.

B C I Senior Investigator Michael Lisman of the Hurley barracks said that police had no leads and that no motive had been established for the slaying.

"Right now we don't have a thing," Lisman said.

He declined to comment on reports that the house had been ransacked and would not disclose details of the material used to bind Mrs. Upright's arms and legs.

Her body was discovered at 9:45 a.m. by 87-year-old Mrs. Millie Bush, who lives next door in the home of her grandson, Donald Doyle.

Police said that Thomas Comerford of Morgan Hill, who had finished painting the Doyle home Tuesday and was supposed to begin painting the dead woman's home Wednesday morning, went to the Upright home about 8:30 a.m. but left after he was unable to contact the owner, thinking perhaps the woman was still asleep.

When he returned at 9:45 and got no answer to his knock, he went next door and notified Mrs. Bush. Comerford then left to call on another customer nearby while Mrs. Bush went to Mrs. Upright's home alone.

When she received no answer to the knock, Mrs. Bush entered through the unlocked front door and saw Mrs. Upright's body on the floor.

"I went over and turned off the television set," Mrs. Bush Said. "I didn't realize at first she was dead. I thought she might just be unconscious."

When she realized Mrs. Upright was dead, Mrs. Bush returned home and called neighbors and State Police, who sent a team under Troop F commander Major R. M. Kisor and BCI commander Captain George Dirschka of Middletown troop headquarters to the scene. Police put up a rope barricade around the home and directed traffic on Cottekill Road while a plainclothes team under Lisman began an investigation in the neighborhood.

Lisman said that there was no sign of forcible entry in the home. The telephone had been pulled from the wall.

Lisman said the woman probably died some time between 6 p.m. Tuesday when she had a telephone conversation with her sister, Mrs. Elroy Smith of Pataukunk, and midnight.

Mrs. Upright had lived alone in the gray-shingled, white-trimmed frame home since her husband Milton, an electrician, died in December, 1966. She had lived there for more than 20 years prior to her husband's death, neighbors said.

The body was removed shortly after noon Wednesday and taken to the Kingston City Laboratory for an autopsy. Ulster County Coroner William S. Keyser issued a verdict of death by strangulation.

Mrs. Upright's house sits on top of a small knoll on the south side of Cottekill Road, about 400 yards west of its intersection with Lucas Avenue Extension, and a few yards west of the point where Coxing Road branch off to the north. It is one of a group of well-kept older homes along the road toward the Ulster County Community College campus about a mile westward.

Frightened Reaction From the Neighbors

COTTEKILL — "You expect this sort of thing in the big cities. It's really frightening when it happens here."

This was the reaction of Mrs. Donald Doyle of Cottekill Road to the news that her next door neighbor, Mrs. Alice Upright, had been found Wednesday morning murdered and brutally beaten in her home.

"Whoever did it is still out there," Mrs. Doyle said, looking through the open windows and doors of her home toward the world outside the tight little community. "That's what worries me."

The prevailing feeling in the neighborhood was one of fear as news of the brutal strangulation slaying spread through the community. People whose closest previous contact with violence had been through the news media suddenly realized "It can happen here."

Mrs. Upright's body was discovered one day before she would have been 68 years old. She had lived alone in the gray shingled home since her husband, an electrician, died five years ago. She had lived in the same house for more than 20 years before her husband's death, neighbors said.

Neighbors gathered in small groups Wednesday in bright sunshine as State Police put up a rope barricade around the neat two-story home. After the body was removed to the Kingston City Laboratory for an autopsy small groups of police stood on the closely cropped lawn of Mrs. Upright's home, talking quietly. Reporters, photographers, and bystanders were not allowed inside the barricade.

Other uniformed troopers directed traffic on the narrow road past the house. Most drivers slowed at the sight of so many uniformed police and patrol cars and some stopped until waved on by traffic controllers.

The house is located on the south side of Cottekill Road about 400 yards west of the Lucas Avenue Extension intersection, one of several older homes that line both sides of the road. It sits on top of a small knoll a few yards from where Coxing Road branches off northward from Cottekill Road. The Cottekill fire company's headquarters is just to the east and across the road.

The dead woman's home, located in a cluster of well-kept older homes, shows obvious signs of intensive care. A red barn and two small outbuildings in the rear are in excellent condition, the grass is mowed, and there are patches of flowers growing in the yard and around the house, things not usually so well cared for by elderly women living alone.

Neighbors knew surprising little about the dead woman, although she had lived among them for years. Without exception they characterized her as a kind, helpful woman, a person of the kind often referred to as "neighborly" in rural areas. But they also said she was reserved in manner and seldom spoke to others of personal matters.

Mrs. Doyle said that like most residents of rural areas, the people in the vicinity leave doors and windows unlocked day and night and frequently leave the keys in the ignition when the car is parked at home.

"I'll bet there will be some locking of doors and windows around here from now on," said one man standing near the rope barrier. Several other persons in the gathering nodded assent.

Kissinger, Thieu Meeting . . . No Clues

SAIGON (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu and Dr. Henry A. Kissinger met today for their first Vietnam talks in more than a year. They smiled and joked for newsmen but gave no clue whether Kissinger was here to dump Thieu or pat him on the back.

The South Vietnamese said tney had been supposed to meet at lunch but that Thieu was 'too busy." The Americans said this was not a snub and that reports Kissinger had been given a cool reception weren't true either—that the 20-hour delay before he saw Thieu was taken up with other meetings.

Kissinger has not given newsmen any indication what will be discussed during the two days of meetings with Thieu and other officials, including U.S. military leaders.

Government sources have said the purpose of Kissinger's sudden visit is to assure Thieu of continued U.S. support. Other sources contend Kissinger's mission is to persuade Thieu to step down as a concession to the North Vietnamese negotiators at the Paris peace talks.

There has been widespread speculation that Kissinger's visit signaled a breakthrough in peace negotiations that he has been holding privately with the North Vietnamese in Paris.

But the White House has cautioned against expecting too much from the visit and Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said in Washington the official purpose of the trip was 'for a general review of all aspects of the Vietnam problem, including the negotiations in Paris."

The presidential adviser, in his first visit to Saigon since July 4, 1971, spent nearly three hours earlier today conferring with U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, U.S. commander Gen. Frederick C. Weyand and 7th Air Force commander Gen. John W. Vogt.

Kissinger told a pool of reporters they conducted a "general and political review of the situation" during the lunchtime meeting.

When Kissinger and Thieu met at the palace at 4:30 p.m. they shook hands, smiled and posed for news photographers.

Thieu and Kissinger then went into a private meeting with Bunker, Thieu's foreign affairs assistant Nguyen Phu Duc and press secretary Hoang Duc Nha, the president's nephew.

Kissinger, relaxed and smiling, left the U.S. command's so-called "Pentagon East" headquarters on the fringe of Tan Son Nhut Air Base, shouted at waiting reporters, "What are you writing?" and climbed into an air-conditioned limousine to be driven back to the embassy, where he had spent the night.

The half-mile-long route between Bunker's residence, where Kissinger is staying, and Thieu's palace was heavily guarded today by security forces.

Kissinger's arrival in the capital during a light monsoon rain Wednesday night was only briefly mentioned on the official Saigon Radio.

He was met at the airport by high-ranking U.S. officials but Thieu's personal representative was an obscure presidential assistant.

Cong Version Blames Nixon

PARIS (UPI) — Madame Nguyen Thi Binh, chief negotiator of the Viet Cong delegation at the Vietnam peace talks, said today she agreed with President Nixon's political opponents that he missed a chance to make peace when he took office in 1969.

Democratic vice presidential candidate Sargent Shriver has charged that President Nixon 'blew" a chance of ending the war at the beginning of his term. Shriver was backed by former chief U.S. negotiator W. Averell Harriman and his deputy, Cyrus Vance.

Addressing the 155th session of the Vietnam talks' semipublic meetings today, Madame Binh said the United States was to blame for "prolonging the impasse in which the conference finds itself.

"I should like to say that, in the search for a solution to the Vietnamese problem, the Nixon administration made an error of choice from the beginning.

"This conference began its work in 1969 at the same time as the arrival of President Nixon at the White House. This was one of the most favorable occasions to put an end to the war, if President Nixon had wanted."

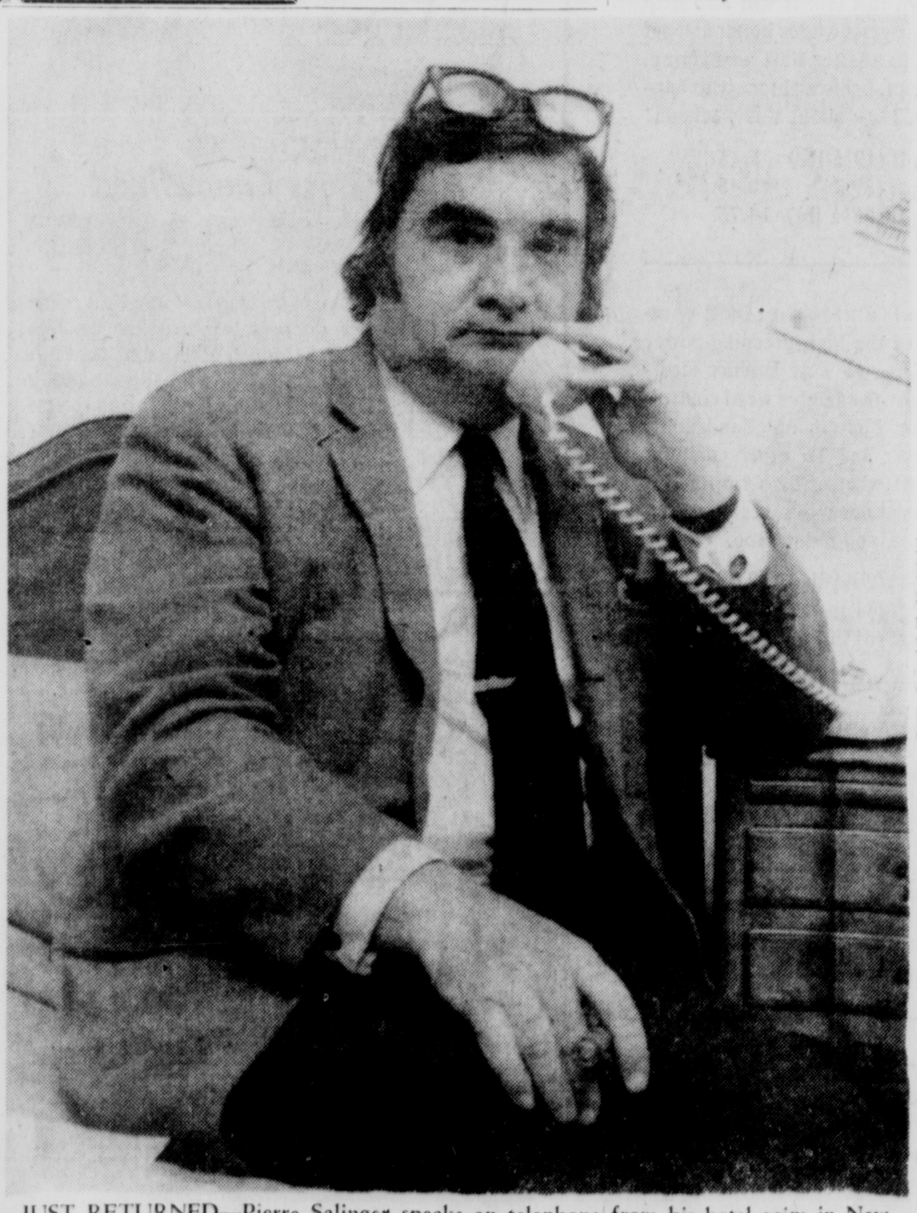

Madame Binh did not mention Shriver, Harriman and Vance by name, but she followed their argument that by choosing to keep Saigon President Nguyen Van Thieu in power and "Vietnamizing" the war, President Nixon threw away an opportunity to negotiate peace then.

"On the contrary what (the U.S. government) sought was a solution which would allow the perpetuation of the yoke of American neocolonialism in South Vietnam," she said.

"It is precisely for this reason that President Nixon embarked on the 'Vietnamization' plan of the war and gave it priority, while all the time seeking to hamper and sabotage the work of this conference," Madame Binh said.

Shriver, who was U.S. ambassador in Paris during the early stages of the Vietnam talks, and Harriman and Vance who negotiated with the Communist delegations, have said there were "clear signals" from Hanoi at the end of the Johnson presidency that the Communists would have made peace then.

JUST RETURNED—Pierre Salinger speaks on telephone from his hotel roim in New York following his return from Paris where he met privately with North Vietnamese negotiators. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Denies, Confirms Salinger in Secret Talks

McGovern Reverses His Field

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — In the space of three hours, Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern first denied, then confirmed, that Pierre Salinger had acted as his agent in secret Paris talks with North Vietnamese peace negotiators about U. S. prisoners of war.

Then he denied any flim-flammery.

Here is what happened Wednesday:

Early in the day a news agency reported from Paris that anonymous friends of McGovern said Salinger, who was President John F. Kennedy's press spokesman, had given Hanoi negotiators a message from McGovern saying they should conclude a peace with President Nixon without waiting for the November election.

The story proved to be at least partially true, but in early afternoon McGovern denied it flatly. He even went further, leaving the clear impression that anything Salinger might have done was strictly at his own initiative.

A newsman's tape recorder caught this exchange as McGovern stepped down from a speaker's platform at the Illinois State Fair:

Pierre Salinger had no instructions whatsoever from me," McGovern said. He told me he's going to Paris and he said while he was there he might try to make some determination of what was going on in the negotiations. But there wasn't the slightest instruction on my part to him."

"Did you discuss this with him at any length?" he was asked.

No. I haven't seen him for several weeks."

Barely two hours later, McGovern's press secretary, Richard Dougherty, casually distributed a three paragraph printed statement from McGovern to newsmen in a temporary press room at McGovern's hotel. It said:

"I have just conferred by phone with Pierre Salinger in reference to his recent visit to Paris. Mr. Salinger had planned to return to Paris follownig the Democratic National Convention and at my request, he met with members of the North Vietnamese delegation in Paris.

The only purpose of the discussion was to determine if any change had occurred which would permit the return of the prisoners prior to the end of hostilities.

"Mr. Salinger found no change in the publicly stated positions of Hanoi. Mr. Salinger also made clear that I have repeatedly stated my conviction that the end of the war should not be delayed by a single day because of the American election campaign."

What McGovern was saying is that he had, in fact, instructed Salinger and that Salinger had, in fact, raised the issue of a pre-election peace.

Why the discrepancy? Newsmen questioned McGovern an hour later as he emerged from an elevator to enter a reception for Illinois Democrats.

"There's no discrepancy at all," McGovern insisted.

Left unanswered was why McGovern had said he'd given Salinger "no instructions whatsoever" when in fact he'd asked Salinger to act as his emissary.

Ulster Charter Still Alive

KINGSTON — Ulster County's proposed new charter is alive and well after all and has a good chance now of being placed on the November ballot.

The proposal had been thought by many to be a dead issue after the Legislature referred the matter back to committee at its Aug. 10 meeting.

But, the Legislative and Rules Committee, meeting Wednesday night, took decisive action, agreeing to make no revisions in the document and to call a special meeting of the Legislature during the next two weeks to vote on whether or not it will be put to a referendum.

Committee chairman Ernest John Gardner (R-Dist. 11) said his committee felt that any charter suggestions and recommendations made at a recent public hearing "were the result of misunderstandings and did not warrant changing the charter."

Any changes to be made, he said, could be accomplished under the Administrative Code which is still to be drawn in connection with the charter.

Gardner stressed that should the Legislature vote favorably on the charter it does not necessarily mean it favors the proposal but rather that it is putting the question to the people in the form of a referendum.

The charter, in order to be approved in the November 7 balloting, would need the endorsement of both the majority of city and county voters. Should either the city or county defeat the proposal, it would not become law.

$20,000 Violin . . . 'Like Losing Dear Friend or Child'

By MATT SPIRENG

NEW PALTZ

"The violin is a very pesonal instrument. It's something you choose with great care and then you have to get used to it. You spend years getting used to each other and when it's taken away it's like a child or a dear friend being stolen."

The sense of great loss was as obvious in concert violinist Robert Rudie's voice as it was in his words when he explained to The Freeman his feelings and the situation surrounding the theft of his 283-year-old violin and four bows worth a total of nearly $30,000.

Rudie, who will be presenting a concert at the Lake Mohonk Mountain House this weekend, was taking a walk following lunch at the resort Tuesday afternoon when the violin disappeared from the cabin where he practiced. Upon returning from the walk, Rudie went to the cabin in order to work.

"It's hard to describe the feeling you have when you go in and see something you know is there is gone," Rudie said. "My first feeling was that someone was playing a joke, but I didn't think it was very funny."

"If you've ever been robbed you get a violated feeling. You wonder how can people do such a thing," he told The Freeman.

The stolen instrument, described as a Grand Pattern model, was made in 1689 by Francesco Rugieri who studied under the same teacher as world-famous violin maker Antonio Stradivarius in Cremona, Italy. It was kept in a brownish-maroon leather case when it was stolen.

"It's hard to put a price on it," Rudie said. He estimated its value at $20,000. The instrument was purchased by Rudie three years ago, before which it had mainly been owned by collectors and instrumentalists in Europe.

One of the four bows taken was made by Francoise Touret, a mid-18th century bowmaker described by Rudie as the "Stradivarius of bowmakers." It was valued at between $3,000 and $6,000.

Two other bows, one of which was valued at $3,000, were made by Dominque Peccatte, described by Rudie as "the next most prized bowmaker." The fourth bow, made by Peccatte's brother, Charles, is worth approximately $500.

Rudie, who is director of the Riverdale School of Music in New York city and concertmaster with the Philharmonic Shymphony in Westchester, drove to New York Wednesday to borrow another instrument for the weekend concert. He returned to the resort Wednesday night with a violin made around 1760 by J.B. Guadagnini.

Rudie was born and lives in New York City. He graduated from the Julliard School of Music and has given concerts throughout the U.S., Canada and Mexico, as well as in Europe and other parts of the world.

While explaining that the stolen instrument is insured, Rudie said, "I'd rather have the instrument than the money. I want the violin back."

Rudie explained that he will be meeting with insurance agents today at the resort and expects a reward of at least $1,000 will be offered for information leading to the return of the violin.

State Police BCI agents from zone headquarters in Hurley are meanwhile continuing investigation of the theft.

Dutchess College Sophomore Files $3 Million Lawsuit

POUGHKEEPSIE

A 19-year-old sophomore at Dutchess Community College in Poughkeepsie, who claims she contracted a rare form of tuberculosis while cleaning a refrigerator on campus, has filed a $3 million lawsuit against the school.

Attorneys for Helen L. Freer of Grimm Road, Newburgh, contend that college officials tried to cover up circumstances surrounding the incident. They contend that the school's evasive actions prevented the disease from being treated at an early stage.

In papers filed in Poughkeepsie Supreme Court, Miss Freer alleges that the college's biology department stored a toxic tuberculin substance in a laboratory refrigerator. She further maintains that she sustained a small scratch while cleaning the refrigerator as a part of her work-study program at the college, and that the disease was contracted when the toxin came in contact with the scratch.

The disease was diagnosed as a very rare form of TB that can only be transmitted by a break in the skin.

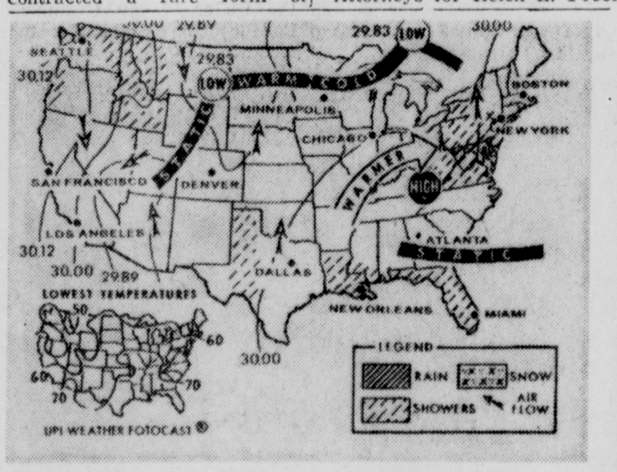

Miss Freer, a biology major, contends that when the first symptoms of the disease became evident, she spoke with college officials about the possibility of deadly toxins being stored in the refrigerator. She contends that not only did the college deny the existance of the toxin, but also destroyed the substance to cover up any wrongdoing.

In April, shortly after the disease was contracted, Miss Freer said she again confronted college officials, who then admitted storage of the toxin and its destruction.

A spokesman for Dutchess Community College said today that he was generally aware of the circumstances surrounding the case, but was not aware "of any formal action taken at this time." He said he knew Miss Freer, and had seen her on campus this summer.

Miss Freer and her attorneys are asking $2.1 million in compensatory damage and $900,000 in punitive damage. They contend that Miss Freer is now faced with treatment for an indefinite period and that the disease could have been arrested sooner had the college immediately admitted the existence of the toxins.

The college has 20 days to answer the papers filed in Supreme Court.

House Fails in Bid to Upset Nixon Health, Education Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon and his congressional supporters have killed a $30.5-billion spending bill for health, education and welfare. The action provoked harsh attacks from administration critics.

Nixon vetoed the bill Wednesday and pressed Congress to take out the $1.8 billion added to his original request. He called the measure "reckless federal spending."

The House hours later failed to muster the two-thirds majority necessary to upset the veto. The vote was 203 to 171 in favor of overriding, 47 short of the number needed. No Senate vote on overriding will be taken.

Although Democrats led the attack on Nixon, the party split ranks in the House and 42 Democrats voted with 129 Republicans against overturning the veto.

Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern denounced the veto and declared it a campaign issue.

"Mr. Nixon has a confused set of values when he said it is reckless to spend $1.8 billion more to meet the heath, education and human needs of this country, but contends it is desirable to spend over $4 billion more on the Pentagon next year," McGovern said in a statement issued in Springfield, Ill., where he was campaigning.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., asserted, "The President's veto once again has demonstrated his insensitivity to the nation's priorities in health, education and programs affecting the elderly."

But in the House, some ranking Democrats disagreed with their leaders' denunciation of the veto.

"The bill is higher than can be justified under the conditions prevailing in this country," said Texas Democrat George H. Mahon, chairman of the Appropriations Committee.

In his veto message, Nixon said the government cannot afford to spend the $30.5 billion appropriated for the Labor and Health, Education and Welfare departments.

The spending 'just cannot be done without more taxes or more inflation, both of which I am determined to avoid," he said.

The bill carried funds for the fiscal year which began last July 1, and its demise leaves the two departments operating at last year's level of spending.

The vetoed measure contained about $800 million more than the President asked for education, including special allotments for poverty-area schools.

The health allotments exceeded his budget by about $900 million. Included were extra funds for research at the National Institutes of Health, for mental-health care, and for hospital construction grants.

Nixon also vetoed the HEW-Labor spending bill in 1969 and was upheld by the House.

RAP McGOVERN TAX PLANS—House Republican leaders claimed that the spending and tax plans Sen. George McGovern has proposed in his Democratic presidential campaign would put the Government $126 billion in debt the first year. At a press conference, House GOP leader Gerald Ford (right) and Rep. John Anderson, of Ill., chairman of the House Republican Conference, said the alternative would be a massive tax boost that would "wipe out" the American middle class. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Busing, Women's Rights On GOP Platform Plank

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Republican platform writers have tentatively agreed to strongly denounce racial busing and to advocate women's rights proposals including a program of day care centers, but to ignore the sensitive issue of abortion.

Platform subcommittees were allowed Wednesday night for the first time to see the closely guarded draft of the party platform prepared by GOP leaders and approved by the White House. In closed sessions they mostly rubber-stamped the draft.

The 116-page documents, bound in red notebooks, reflect President Nixon's thinking on all subjects although the subcommittee provisions on busing and day care centers went farther than GOP leaders wanted.

The full platform committee was to begin work tonight on the final version of the platform, which will be presented to the GOP national convention next week, and further changes could be made.

Sources said the subcommittee on community and national development went farther than GOP leaders wanted in denouncing busing. The White House-approved draft called for an end to racial busing and support of Nixon's proposed legislation to place a moratorium on court-ordered busing. The subcommittee also urged consideration of a constitutional amendment against busing if the legislation failed to pass.

The woman-dominated subcommittee on human rights strengthened language denouncing economic discrimination against women and added a proposal which calls for federal funding of day care centers with child development programs.

The day care centers would be voluntary and those who used them would pay on a sliding scale according to means.

Charges Made by Bobby Fischer Rejected by Chess Federation

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI) —The president of the International Chess Federation (FIDE) today rejected American charges of arrogance and incompetence against arbiter Lothar Schmid in the Boris Spassky-Bobby Fischer world championship match.

FIDE President Max Euwe, a former world champion, phoned Schmid from Amsterdam and notified the German arbiter of a cable he had received from Fischer-aide Fred Cramer protesting Schmid's "arrogance, incompetence and unwillingness to improve playing conditions."

"I told Euwe conditions were in full agreement with the rules and he asked me to reject the charges," Schmid said.

The 15th game in the $250,000 match was scheduled for 1 p.m. EDT with Russian champion Spassky playing white pieces. His challenger has a commanding 8½-to 5½-point lead and needs four points to become the first American titlist.

Cramer, a FIDE vice president, said his cable was "the latest attempt in a weeklong fight to improve playing conditions and control excessive noise in the the hall."

The rumpus started Aug. 9 when Fischer signed a letter to Schmid asking that seven rows be removed and all children banned from the ground floor of the 3,000-seat exhibition hall where the match is being played.

"I could hear candy being unwrapped, coughing, laughing and pieces of conversation," Fischer said.

Lindsay Tells Police... 'Run Mobsters Out of Town'

NEW YORK (AP) — Amid the lingering echo of misaimed gangland guns that killed two innocent bystanders by mistake, New York's 30,000-member police force was under mandate from Mayor John V. Lindsay today to "run the mobsters out of town."

"Get out and stay out!" was the message the mayor ordered police brass to relay to the city's five shadowy Cosa Nostra families, ranging in size up to possibly 1,000 members.

The "hit" parade that began 14 months ago with the shooting of crime chieftain Joseph Colombo had already claimed 15 lives within the underworld, before it spilled into the city's mainstream last Friday with misdirected bullets fired in a little East Side restaurant.

"The recent murder of innocent citizens, allegedly the result of mistaken identity by gangland executioners, is an outrage which demands that the romanticization of the mob must be stopped and the gangsters run out of town," Lindsay declared in a statement Wednesday.

Manhattan Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan already has announced a wholesale subpoenaing of members of New York's five crime families, for a grand jury convening next week to look into the mistake slaying of two businessmen at the Neapolitan Noodle restaurant.

Lindsay gave no details on how he expected the police to chase the mob out of the city.

Boy, 11, Killed by Policeman; Staten Island Residents Protest

NEW YORK (AP) — About 100 persons massed in a section of Staten Island Wednesday night to protest the fatal shooting of a trouble-prone 11-year-old boy by a policeman. Three injuries were reported and one man was arrested.

Some rocks, bottles and bricks were tossed at traffic, police said, and two white teenage brothers were beaten up by members of the predominantly black crowd.

Police said the disturbance centered in an eight to ten block area where the slain boy lived and that it subsided after a half hour.

Mayor John V. Lindsay meanwhile ordered an investigation Wednesday into shooting of the boy, Ricky Bodden, one of three youths discovered riding in a stolen car in the West New Brighton section of Staten Island Tuesday night.

Police said the boy had been arrested 17 times since 1969 on charges ranging from shoplifting to robbery and sexual abuse. He came to the United States from British Honduras six years ago.

Bodden was shot while abandoning the stolen car after fleeing a pursuing patrol car at high speeds and circumventing a roadblock, police said.

Police said Patrolman Francis P. Ortolano fired three shots after one of Bodden's companions suddenly wheeled in a crouching position as if he had a gun. They said Bodden ran into the line of fire and was struck in the back. No guns were found and there were conflicting versions as to whether Ortolano had shouted a warning before opening fire.

A pair of teen-agers sitting on a nearby stoop were also shot and superficially wounded by two stray police bullets, police said.

Lindsay called the episode "tragic" and "deeply disturbing" and said if any violations of the law or proper police procedures are discovered to have occurred, appropriate action will be taken against those responsible."

Acting Dist. Atty. Ralph Di Iorio of Staten Island said a grand jury would investigate the shooting to "determine the propriety of the policeman's action."

Bodden's two companions were charged with juvenile delinquency.

The youths hurt during Wednesday' night's fray were identified as Phillip Coccio, 16, and his 14-year-old brother Stephen. The older youth was beaten into unconsciousness and was reported to be in fair condition with a head injury at the U. S. Public Health Service Hospital on Staten Island. His brother was treated at Staten Island Hospital.

In another incident, Robert Fox, 18, of Staten Island, was charged with burglary after being seized while allegedly attempting to break into a hardware store in the area of the protest.

PLANNING MEETING — Three of four botanists who will lead a meeting of the John Burroughs Natural History Society on August 26 go over plans. From left to right are Dr. Germain LaRoche, Mary Domville, author of a recent book on Ulster County flora, and Paul Huth, who recently received his degree in botany. They will be joined at the meeting by Karl Brooks, a Delaware County resident who is working on a book about the flora of the Catskills. The four will lead a discussion of the existing habitats at the Kenneth L. Wilson Public Campsite in Wittenberg. Visitors are welcome to the meeting which will convene at 9 a. m. at the Bearsville Post Office on Route 212 for a field trip to the campsite. (Freeman photo by Powell)

'Peace and Freedom' Rally Slated

WOODSTOCK — The Ulster County Peace Committee unveiled plans recently for a "Peace and Freedom Rally" to be held in Woodstock on Sunday, Sept. 3.

The rally has tentatively been set for the Woodstock Playhouse. The starting time for the rally has not yet been determined.

Many of the details of the rally are still uncertain, although several speakers have already indicated that they will participate in the event. The list includes Stanley Faulkner, a nationally known civil rights attorney; Larry Kithcart, a Democratic Ulster County Legislator from Kingston; and Everette Hodge, president of the Kingston NAACP.

Former comedian Lenny Price, now a Woodstock resident, will host the rally.

Folksingers Carolyn and Sandy Payton are also scheduled to perform. Efforts are being made to have several Woodstock area music groups to perform at the rally.

Among other plans tentatively scheduled for the rally is an art contest that will give children of the area an opportunity to express their concept of "war" and "peace" through paintings and drawings.

It is also planned to have several well-known Woodstock artists offer works of art to raise money to help victims of the war in Southeast Asia.

Plans were also begun to invite leading anti-war Congressmen and Congressional candidates to speak at the rally. They will be joined by private citizens of all occupations who will state how their personal lives have been affected by the continuing war in Vietnam.

Further plans and details will be announced as they are finalized.

County Men Receive Pollution Patent

KINGSTON — William W. Jaxheimer of this city and Joseph Misarek of Woodstock are the recent recipients of a patent entitled Air Pollution Control, and it has been assigned to Combustion Control Devices, Paterson, N.J.

As described in detail in the specifications and drawings of their patent, the air pollution controller, invented by the two men, comprises a series of after burning, steam, fog, spray and washing chambers which are arranged in proper sequence and through which the pollutant containing gases passes so that the contaminants are removed.

Furthermore, the sulfides or other chemicals, removed during the process are placed in a water solution which can be further refined, reclaimed, neutralized or disposed of, and the air pollution controller of the invention may be used effectively with kilns, cement plants, foundries and other equipment and installations that generate pollutants, including the largest industrial and municipal complexes.

The air pollution controller permits the satisfactory use of low cost fuels and it also eliminates the need for high smoke stacks, according to the inventors.

It was pointed out that one of the most serious problems affecting modern society is air pollution from the exhaust systems of incinerators, foundries, power plants and factories. This pollution is particularly prevalent in urban and highly industrial areas and may be in the form of smoke, fine ash particles, hydrocarbons and various poisonous and non-poisonous chemicals.

A release from Fact Bureau, McKeesport, Pa., notes that conventional incinerators increase the air pollution by discharging pollutants directly into the atmosphere. The invention of Jaxheimer and Misarek, it is claimed, is capable of eliminating all contaminants from a pollution generating system.

City Playgrounds Close

KINGSTON — The summer season for the City of Kingston playgrounds officially comes to a close at noon Friday, according to an announcement by Andrew J. Murphy III, superintendent of the Parks and Recreation Commission, and Ron Gabriele, activities director for the recreation department.

Playground supervisors will collect equipment, officially close the playgrounds and report to the Municipal Auditorium by noon Friday. Thus another successful summer season for the recreation department and the children of Kingston will close.

Numerous events took place throughout the season. Highlights included the sixth annual "Children's Day" parade at mid-summer which attracted nearly 14,000 along the line of march. Other highlights were Fantasyland Day, the annual swim meet, a paint-in, two out of town swim meets, weekly tournaments, the on-going softball leagues for both boys and girls, individual bus trips for each park, hikes and arts and crafts displays.

City Hall Move Still Two Weeks Away

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The new city hall in Broadway East will be vacant for at least another two weeks, except for a few workmen doing touchup work. The reason this time seems to be that the architect's representative, Robert Milliken, will be on vacation for the nest two weeks and he's the only man who can certify the completion of the building.

Milliken was interviewed Wednesday by The Freeman following another one of his inspection trips of the new building and said he was still not satisfied that work had veen completed according to contract specifications. He said he hoped the job will be finished when he returns from vacation.

Milliken says that he's the only man qualified to certify the completion of the building since he's worked on it from its earliest design stages. According to Milliken, son of Architect Albert E. Milliken, there is no one else in the Milliken firm who is as familiar with the building as he is. And so, even if the work is completed while Milliken is on vacation, it cannot be officially certified until he gets back.

The contractor's representative, G. Scott Alexander, has "no comment," except to say, "nobody's leaving," (meaning that work is continuing). The city has already put the bonding company on notice that it is dissatisfied with the contractor's work.

Milliken is perhaps the key figure at this point in the city hall issue. Mayor Francis R. Koenig has taken the position that the city will not move in until the new building is completed. He refers all questions as to the building's status to Milliken. Milliken, for his part, says he's responsible to the city and that if he certifies work as completed that isn't completed, then it's his responsibility.

The "touchup work" to be completed is of a minor nature, including such things as patchup painting, replacing of damaged ceiling tiles and planting of a bare spot in the lawn. The major item seems to be one of the walls in the women's section of the jail.

According to Milliken, the specifications called for a smooth, painted wall (the wall is concrete). The contractor left a rough wall which Milliken wants sanded and painted over.

Milliken allows that there is really no reason why the city can't move into the new building. In fact, he notified the city as long ago as March 2 that the building could be occupied. On March 2, however, there was no furniture for the building; that didn't arrive until early June and has been sitting in packing crates in the Common Council Chambers on the ground floor ever since. Milliken said on Wednesday that he was again going to inform the mayor that the building could be occupied. If he wants to move in, I'd say he could move in without creating too many problems," Milliken said.

The city's contract with the general contractor, George Swart of Kingston, incidentally, allows for a one-year warranty after completion where any repairs that have to be done will be paid for by the contractor.

The city, according to City Treasurer Orrie R. Riehl, has already paid about $113,000 toward the cost of the $972,000 building. The city has paid off a $45,000 capital construction note and an additional $1,350 in interest on that note; paid $25,000 on bond anticipation notes with interest of $6,562; paid the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency $23,900 for the land and paid Milliken, the architect, $10,000. The city initially intended to finance the building of city hall through the issuance of five-year bond anticipation notes. The advantage is that interest rates are low, ranging from three to three and three-eighths per cent; the disadvantage is that payments on principal and interest in any given year are usually high. City Treasurer Riehl indicated that the city might float a 20-year bond to pay the remaining cost on city hall, sometime next year.

Penn RR Expansion Suggested

By CARL GRAHAM

ALLABEN

Shandaken Supervisor Raymond J. Dunn, a prime mover in the effort to block abandonment of the Catskill Mountain Branch by the Penn Central Railroad, has called instead for expansion of service on the line to include ski trains and excursions.

Dunn said that the presence of the Belleayre Ski Center would furnish potential customers for ski trains in the winter. Skiers could avoid driving and parking problems by utilizing ski trains to the Phoenicia railhead, with a 10-mile bus trip from there to the ski center.

"I think something could be worked out between the railroad, the ski center, and the local government that would benefit everybody," Dunn said. "The railroad could even handle hotel reservations for weekend skiers, the way they do in the Laurentian Mountains in Canada."

Dunn also noted that the Town of Shandaken owns 87 acres of land near the town hall in Allaben and that this could be used for snowmobile trails. The town has already had several inquires from snowmobile clubs about possible use of the town acreage, Dunn said.

Other reasons for expanded service on the Catskill Mountain Branch would be summer excursion trips and commuter trains, Dunn said.

"There are numerous people who drive to Kingston to work," he noted. "The railroad should look into the possiblity of running commuter trains for them."

Dunn, who has figured prominently in the fight against abandonment of the branch line, again blasted Penn Central offcials for their announced reason for closing it down.

"They claim they have to abandon the line because freight business has declined," he said, "but they took out the stations and the freight offices. How could anyone ship anything if there isn't any office to handle the business?"

The Town of Shandaken, has filed an official protest against abandonement of the 83.6-mile Commerce Commission, which will make the final decision. Other protests have been filed by the towns of Hurley and Olive and by the New York State Department of Transportation.

Drug Deaths Drop Recorded

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (UPI) —A drop in the number of narcotic-related deaths in Westchester County for the second quarter of the year was reported Wednesday by the county medical examiner.

Dr. Henry Siegel submitted a preliminary report of the deaths to County Executive Edwin G. Michaelian.

The report shows the number of deaths from methadone, which numbered two during the first quarter, dropped to one during the April to June period. In 1970 there were no deaths from methadone compared to nine last year.

Heroin-related deaths for the first quarter totaled six but dropped to three the following period. There were 13 heroin deaths in 1970 and 23 in 1971, the report said.

Spendthrift Congress

The decision by the AFL-CIO executive council to back neither presidential candidate and to concentrate instead on the congressional races in November may be a more relevant step than even the labor leaders themselves realized. The performance of the current Democrat-dominated 92nd Congress promises to be an election issue on a par with the ideological differences between Richard Nixon and George McGovern.

Not that we can expect a rerun of former President Truman's campaign against "the do-nothing 80th Congress" in 1948. The record of the 92nd Congress is assailable as much for what it has done—especially to the federal budget—as for what it has failed to do.

It now appears that welfare reform is a dead issue for this session. So is the prospect of a more forthright congressional stand on school busing. So is the administration plan for reorganizing the Executive department. The outlook for the President's emergency transportation strike legislation is so bleak that the White House is withdrawing it to write an entirely new bill.

William E. Timmons, the President's new congressional liaison chief, has characterized the record of Congress as "miserable, appalling and irresponsible." This might be overstating the case if he were referring only to the reluctance of congressional Democrats to fulfill the promise of the "new American revolution" in the program laid down by Mr. Nixon in his State of the Union message 18 months ago. Politics is politics. However, the language is not too strong considering the reckless treatment which Congress has given to authorization and appropriation of funds.

The administration has hoped to shepherd our economy through the buffeting of recession and inflation with a "full employment deficit" in the federal budget, one in which inflationary effects would be canceled out by economic growth. This is risky enough to begin with, but Congress has already abandoned the principle behind it by adding $6 billion to the administration budget, with more yet to come.

Even as Mr. Nixon was urging Congress to hold the line on election-year spending, a House-Senate committee was adding an extra $2 billion to the budget for anti-poverty programs in the next two years.

The AFL-CIO will be looking for "friends of labor" in its assessment of congressional candidates. If labor leaders are looking for candidates who are really friends of the working man, they will demand an accounting of incumbent members of Congress whose spendthrift votes are feeding the inflation which robs the worker of the fruits of his toil and only perpetuates the wage and price controls which the AFL-CIO itself finds so repugnant.

No-Fault Insurance

The Senate's 49-46 vote to send to the Judiciary Commitee, for further study, a national system of no-fault automobile insurance, closed the door to its enactment before the recess for the Republican National Convention, and perhaps for this session.

Adherents of a compulsory no-fault system under which benefits would be paid by each automobile owner's insurance company, regardless of who was at fault in an accident, were encouraged by the close vote. They had planned to stage a prolonged debate to put it over. Now, they have more time to line up backers.

Senator Warren G. Magnuson, arguing against the delay, said that automobile insurance was bordering on a "national scandal." He said that Americans paid $14.6 billion annually in automobile insurance premiums but get back only slightly more than half in benefits.

States would be required to pass no-fault insurance under federal standards. In states that failed to adopt these standards within the prescribed time, a federal no-fault law would automatically take effect.

The experience of Massachusetts, the pioneer, in this field, has stirred many states to study the plan, and some few to adopt it. Putting it under federal law would standardize automobile insurance for the good of motorists everywhere.

"Just think, if we're elected, I'll be 'Mr. Vice-President' instead of 'that guy who married one of the Kennedy sisters'!"

Jack Anderson Says

Nixon Accents Affirmative

WASHINGTON — Talking election strategy with Republican leaders recently behind closed doors, President Nixon called for an "affirmative" campaign that won't alienate Democrats.

He doesn't want to discourage Democratic defections, he said, by running a partisan campaign. He intends, therefore, to direct his campaign against the "McGovernites" rather than the Democrats.

Not only does the President intend to travel the high road, but he wants his subordiantes to campaign on the same level. As he spoke he faced Spiro Agnew across an oblong table but otherwise didn't direct his remarks to the Vice President.

"Let's campaign on our record," admonished the President, "let's not fight with anybody."

His nonbelligerent policy, he said, included the press. "We may not like the way the press handles the campaign," he said, but we want no quarrels with the press."

Again he emphasized: "Let's stick to the affirmative."

Thus his re-election strategy departs emphatically from the rock'em, sock 'em campaigns that brought him to the pinnacle of political power.

The strategy session was held over poached eggs and toast in the White House state dining room. The President invited his cabinet officers, principal aides and GOP congressional leaders to join in the political give-and-take.

"I hope you had enough to eat," he began. "I thought you would like the way they do the eggs around here. Of course, I don't eat them often myself."

Then he swung into political gear. "I am going to tell you," he said, "how we ought to look ahead to this Fall."

Political Outlook

He was optimistic about the economic outlook, expressed confidence the "brakes on inflation" would hold and promised to veto excessive spending bills.

His visits to Peking and Moscow, he felt, had reduced world tensions. And the withdrawal of U. S. combat troops from Vietnam, he suggested, had largely defused the Vietnam war as a campaign issue.

As he stressed the affirmative, he kept his own counsel about avoiding attacks on the Democrats. Even though he was speaking privately to Republican strategists, he made no cracks about the Democratic fiasco in choosing a vice presidential candidate and he mentioned his rival George McGovern only in passing.

But not all his listeners agreed the campaign should be quite as restrained as the President outlined.

"We should carry the fight to the opposition," urged Senate GOP leader Hugh Scott. He cited McGovern's "incapacity to control his staff" as evidence that McGovern "couldn't run the country."

Agreeing, House GOP leader Gerald Ford suggested that the Republicans should take the offensive over the failure of the Democratic-controlled Congress to pass revenue sharing and welfare reforms.

The President concurred that they should run on the record not only of "what we have achieved" but also "what we have sought to achieve" from Congress.

He wound up his political pitch with an appeal that they "take nothing for granted" and that they "keep stressing what we have done." He added that each leader "should make your own arguments to fit your own situation." But he hoped they "would make some of the points I have made here."

Footnote: Some congressional leaders urged the President to make campaign appearances in their areas. He said he "would like to get around," but was "going to be busy doing my job." He indicated that he would make some appearances on "special occasions" and before "large gatherings."

Washington Whirl

PEACE PROSPECTS — The Central Intelligency Agency, in a secret dispatch, has quoted a "reliable" source as saying a Vietnam ceasefire can be expected as early as September. The source, according to the CIA, is close to the North Vietnamese delegation in Paris.

MILITARY AID — The United States has now replaced most of the military hardware that the South Vietnamese army lost during the first weeks of the North Vietnamese offensive. Military aid has also been rushed to Cambodia to bolster the faltering Cambodian army.

CONGRESSIONAL PROSPECTS — Despite brave public predictions, GOP congressional leaders don't hold too much hope of winning control of Congress in November. Their private estimate is that they will pick up no more than 20 seats in the House, not enough to take the leadership away from the Democrats. The battle for control of the Senate, however, could be closer. But here, too, the Republicans expect to fall short a seat or two.

Ban the Bomb

WASHINGTON — With all the talk about limitation of armaments, it is surprising that world sentiment has not been mobilized to bring about the abolition of nuclear weapons. Five major powers have nuclear arsenals which are a potential threat to a huge number of human beings. No such menace has existed before in history. The wonder is that little has been done to try to eliminate it, though there is wide recognition of the danger in the mere possession of nuclear bombs.

The truth is that, although the United States and the Soviet Union have reached agreement on arms control, the nuclear race goes on and is spreading. Even this country and Russia are carrying on underground tests of atomic bombs, while the Soviets continue to test intercontinental missiles, France — which, along with mainland China, has refused to join the other three nuclear powers in banning atmospheric tests — is conducting a series of such tests.

Several smaller nations are approaching the point where they can build their own atomic weapons. Ingredients for nuclear bombs are being manufactured in ever-growing amounts.

Suggestions have been made that international conferences be called to discuss not just the control but the abolition of nuclear weapons. No proposals have, however, been adopted by any government.

The United States has a particular obligation to support a movement to do away with all nuclear weapons, because it dropped an atomic bomb during wartime. Though this helped end World War II, there are many people who think the war might well have been won by the Allies in a short time without the introduction of such a devastating weapon.

The nuclear bomb can bring destruction not only on armies but to millions of civilians. Its use would violate all the rules of civilized warfare and could lead to retaliatory action that would add to the slaughter of people around the globe.

Yet the subject of abolishing nuclear arms is not the theme of international meetings or of consultations between major powers who profess to be friendly to one another. The Soviet Union did propose to the United Nations last year that it call a "universal" conference to bring about the prohibition and elimination of nuclear weapons, but nothing has been done to advance the idea. Mainland China has from time to time indicated that it favors the concept, and so has the United States.

In the 27 years that have elapsed since the first atomic bomb was dropped on Japan, however, there has been no serious movement to ban all nuclear weapons everywhere. The recent agreement between the United States and the Soviet Union to limit the building of strategic arms is an encouraging development, but until it is determined to abolish them altogether, the world will not be free from the worst menace that has ever existed.

The theory heretofore has been, of course, that almost any weapon can be used during a war in order to cause the enemy to surrender. But missiles carrying nuclear warheads reach beyond military forces and into the homes of civilians who are in no way engaged in the fighting. If some of the governments which have nuclear weapons are willing to regulate additions to their nuclear arsenals, why shouldn't they move to cut them down and eventually eliminate them?

One of the difficulties with the problem is to make sure that ,if all nuclear weapons are prohibited, they will be destroyed by each of the nations which possess them. For this purpose, a body of neutral inspectors could be appointed to see that this is done.

The United States first used an atomic bomb in the Second World War and has played an important part in the build-up of nuclear power. It would gain considerable support if it took the intitative now to seek an agreement by each of the countries that possess nuclear arms to abolish them and set a date on which all such weapons would be rendered useless.

Inasmuch as the United States is the only country that has used a nuclear bomb against civilians, it would receive the applause of the world if it took the leadership in a movement that succeeded in preventing the employment of nuclear weapons in the future through the destruction of those that have been accumulated and pledges to assure that no more will be made. International inspection would be a necessary part of the agreement so that the abolition of nuclear weapons could be checked regularly to prove that the promises are being fulfilled.

McGovern Bandwagon Is Stalled

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The fresh-painted McGovern-Shriver signs are up, and even Chicago's Mayor Richard Daley is smiling at them. Yet the debris from the brawl over deposed Thomas Eagleton is all about, and the question is, which will most catch the voter's eye.

Understandably, the McGovern camp is suffused with some euphoria and a sense of relief now that the rather ugly fight is over. But it would be misleading to conclude that brightening surface impressions are a true measure of present political realities.

For one thing, as a Democrat party spokesman puts it "the campaign lay dead in the water" while the Eagleton affair went on. In his view, it will not be at all easy to find the kind of momentum McGovern needs to make a real race of it against President Nixon.

People poking around McGovern's new headquarters in a condemned Washington building say there is a feeling nobody is in command there. Unless campaign leadership develops quickly, this may be the year of the headless horseperson (apologies to author Jane O'Reilly for use of the word).

It is nearly three weeks since former National Chairman Lawrence O'Brien was given a top campaign post, and he still doesn't have the faintest idea what, specifically, he is supposed to do.

If he is not to be a key coordinator, who is? Veteran politicians are puzzled at the evident McGovern notion that all will be drawn together nicely if Gary Hart runs the vote-drumming field operations and Frank Mankiewicz manages the candidate's personal traveling campaign. The old hands don't believe it will work.

Whatever confidence the McGovern people themselves may still have after the Eagleton thing, it is a fact that confidence in McGovern and his staff has dropped off politicians and political observers.

One eastern Democratic liberal whose party loyalty has been strong for two decades told me:

"After Eagleton, McGovern is a super-disaster. I'm thinking of voting for Nixon."

A great casualty obviously has been candor. Few reporters close to the McGovern camp during the Eagleton crisis feel they were fairly dealt with. Some, who cannot themselves be faulted on the issues of fairness and balance, are wondering aloud whether they ever again can trust the word of McGovern and his top aides. They think they were lied to — and used.

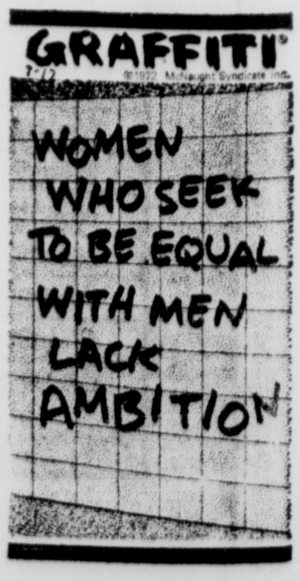

Some of their complaints have to do with the intricacies of political utterance and maneuver — what some would describe simply as "inside baseball." It is being argued, therefore that a lot of this stuff will wash away, never really registering with the voters.

But it may not be so. Television's reporters often drop damaging little hints into their network commentaries, giving them broad-ranging currency such things would never get in the old days.

Furthermore reporters who have grown skeptical of a candidate and his staff on the score of honesty are, potentially, a very difficult barrier to get past in an admittedly uphill campaign.

When an erosion of trust sets in, it is not easy to arrest. Men whose judgments and findings were touted as impressive just months ago suddenly are thrust far down the scale, even when they are known not to have been involved in the Eagleton matter.

McGovern is in tough shape, and not even 100 truckloads of smile buttons can really brighten the scene today.

Senior Trailer Park...New Proposal

By WADE BURKHART
GARDINER

The potential developers of the Cohn-Baum trailer park, on Route 44-55 in the Town of Gardiner, have come up with another proposal for the 300-acre tract, but this proposal may also be unacceptable.

The first Cohn-Baum proposal was to put about 700 trailers on the tract, to be lived in by senior citizens. The proposal has been turned down by the Town of Gardiner; the town's trailer ordinance specifies one acre per trailer.

The new Cohn-Baum proposal, according to Lester Cohn, a principal, is to place 300 trailers on the 300 acres, still only for senior citizens, but to cluster the trailers, preserving green space.

According to Gardiner officials, this would not comply with the trailer ordinance. Both George Majestic, the supervisor, and planning board chairman Alexander Soutar, told The Freeman Wednesday that the law specificially states that each trailer must have a separate one-acre tract. The law makes no provision for clustering the trailers.

Soutar said the Cohn-Baum interests met with the planning board Tuesday night, and the situation was explained to them. Soutar said that not only would the proposal be contrary to the town law as he reads it, but he also understood that the planning board would not be able to grant a variance even if it wanted to because it was a town law.

Soutar said the town attorney was being contacted for further clarification.

No detailed plans were presented to the planning board at the Tuesday night meeting, Soutar saying the developers wanted to get the reaction of the board before going to the expense of having the plans drawn.

Soutar said the developers would not submit plans unless they received a "qualified yes" from the planning board, the qualified yes indicating the ability of the board to grant a variance if it wanted to because it was a town law.

Cohn, however, said plans would be submitted at the next planning board meeting.

Before any variance could be granted, if it is found the planning board has that power, such questions as how many trailers to the acre and whether restricting the park to senior citizens is legal would have to be answered, according to Soutar.

'All Resign' Request...No Joke

By WADE BURKHART
GARDINER

Gardiner Town Supervisor George Majestic asked the whole Gardiner planning board to resign Tuesday night, but the planning board does not, according to its head, intend to grant the request.

Planning board chairman Alexander Soutar said the board "took it as sort of a joke", but Majestic says he is serious. Majestic said Wednesday that he told the planning board he would make his request public, and bring it up at the next town board meeting.

A public hearing was held on a zoning variance request by Miller's Auction on Route 44-55. The hearing was conducted by the town board, and no decision was reached.

Majestic said the hearing was scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the Gardiner Fire House, but the Association had informed its members that it was at 8 p.m., and so it was decided to wait for the people before the hearing was held.

The planning board had its regular monthly meeting scheduled for the same place, on the same night.

Majestic said the hearing was conducted, and got over at about 9:45 p.m. Soutar said it was more like 11 p.m.

Majestic said he then requested the planning board, which had been meeting in a side room since the main room was occupied, to come into the main room and finish their meeting. He said both he and the town clerk, Mrs. Vivian McCord, asked the planning board to come to the main room. The planning board didn't come.

Majestic said he then told the planning board they "were not serving the people of Gardiner", and asked them to resign.

According to Majestic, there were people in the meeting room who wanted to hear the planning board deliberations.

Soutar said the planning board did not change rooms because the board had its planning materials all spread out, and discussions were in progress. He said he had a planning board member go out to the meeting room and invite all those interested to come to the room the planning board was using.

Soutar said he protested at the last town board meeting the practice of scheduling town board hearings in the fire house when the planning board is to meet.

Said Soutar of Majestic and his resignation request, 'Unfortunately, he has been attacked from all sides lately. I think he just blew his top."

Poughkeepsie League Sues Dutchess Board

POUGHKEEPSIE

The League of Women Voters of Greater Poughkeepsie has commenced suit against the Dutchess County Board of Representatives for alleged violation of the one man, one vote covering county district representation.

Answer to the complaint is due Sept. 4 in Dutchess County Supreme Court.

The action is an attempt to set aside Local Law No. 3 of 1972. That law became effective Aug. 15, after having been passed June 25.

"Not only is the League challenging Local No. 3 of 1972," said league president Jane G. Gould, "we are also challenging constitutionality of the present membership of the Board of Representatives."

"The existing Board was districted in accord with the terms and conditions of Local Law No. 6 of 1971 and it is merely perpetuated by Local Law No. 3. It is necessary to attack the existing districting plan as well as the one under which elections will be held," she said.

"The major thrust of the League suit was said to be to urge the Board of Representatives to create districts to reflect the one man, one vote edict of the courts.

According to population reports furnished to the league upon which the 17 county districts are based, there is a 21.5 per cent deviation from high to low among districts.

Each representative on the Board is supposed to represent 6,008 people. Representatives from District I in Northern Dutchess, including towns of Red Hook, Rhinebeck, Milan, and Pine Plains, each represent 5,440 persons. The representative from District III represents 6,743 persons.

"Not only are we pressing for reduction of the glaring disparities between and among districts," Mrs. Gould asserted, "we are also pressing for legal recognition of the theory that all voters should have equal opportunity to influence the governmental processes."

She said that this essentially means single-member or equal-member districts, "While the League seeks single member districts, we realize that districts with equal representation would be just as fair," she continued, giving as an example the possiblity of splitting the county into 15 districts, equal in population, each with two representatives.

The League is being represented in this action by the law firm of Aldrich and MacDonald, 21 Davis Avenue, Poughkeepsie. Senior partner Russell E. Aldrich successfully represented the Town of Poughkeepsie in its lawsuit concerning redistricting in 1966.

Area Woman Indicted For Attempted Murder

POUGHKEEPSIE — Carol Bodie, 24, of West Pierpont Street, Kingston and Church Street, Poughkeepsie, was indicted by the Dutchess County Grand Jury Wednesday on an attempted murder charge.

Miss Bodie, along with Henry Williams, 27, of New Paltz and Charles Williams, 26, of Poughkeepsie were allegedly involved in an altercation with two Poughkeepsie police detectives on July 18. Henry Williams was shot and killed in the fracas; Miss Bodie is alleged to have fired a single shot at detective Stanley Dahowski.

The woman remains confined to the Dutchess County Jail in lieu of $25,000 bail. She was due to be arraigned in County Court today on the attempted murder charge.

Michael Williams was charged with obstructing governmental justice following the altercation with police. His case is still pending.

The two Poughkeepsie detectives stopped a car driven by Henry Williams, who was wanted by Hurley State Police on a second degree assault charge. During a brief scuffle at the scene, Miss Bodie allegedly grabbed one of the detective's guns and fired an errant shot. When the trio tried to escape, Williams was shot and killed by detective Julian Chickering.

Violent Windstorm Strikes, Report 3 Persons Drown

BROOKINGS, Ore. (UPI)—A sudden windstorm whipped the ocean into a deathly fury Wednesday, smashing boats into rocks and toppling trees and power lines along the coast.

Three persons drowned and others were reported missing after winds that gusted 75 miles per hour hit the Northern California - Southern Oregon coastline.

The Coast Guard said it towed in "more than 20" fishing boats. A spokesman said three craft were missing, and the area would be searched today with cutters and aircraft.

Waves reached 14 feet and tossed dozens of small boats ashore. At least three craft were sunk, including a commercial fishing boat.

The bodies of Clayton Dooley, 57, a Brookings fisherman and Virginia Friend of Grants Pass, were recovered along with Mrs. Friend's 10-year-old son. Still missing was the woman's husband, Don, a 12-year-old son and Don Higgens, also of Grants Pass. Dooley's grandson, David Shinkle, 14, was rescued by a commercial fishing boat.

Lloyd Resident Held in Bail

TOWN OF ESOPUS — A 49-year-old Town of Lloyd man was arrested Wednesday by deputy sheriffs on a charge of sexual abuse that stemmed from an investigation of a complaint that he allegedly molested a woman employe at the Chevron Electronics Inc., in Port Ewen.

David Taylor of Main Street, Highland, was arraigned before Town Justice Robert Jordan. He pleaded innocent and was held in $2,500 bail pending a hearing on Friday. The arrest was made on a warrant by Deputies Richard Keller, Herbert O'Brien and Willard Bound.

The name of the complainant was not released by authorities.

Corporal Walter Baschnagel also reported two men were arrested by Deputy Sheriff Thomas J. Sickler following an argument in Phoenicia. John C. Wickham, 25, of Margaretville, was charged with third degree assault on complaint of George Wolf, 51, of Towaboro, N. J. Wickham made a counter charge accusing Wolf of harassment.

The argument between the two men allegedly stemmed from a dispute about using a parking space in a lot in Phoenicia.

Both men were released in $25 bail each pending a hearing before Town of Shandaken Justice Edwin France.

Fire Destroys Horse Barn

SHAWANGUNK VALLEY — Fire of undetermined origin totally destroyed a pole barn at the Blue Chip Farm early today despite the efforts of two volunteer fire companies.

A neighbor noticed flames coming from the barn at 2:30 a.m. and telephoned in an alarm. Shawangunk Valley firemen under Chief Eugene Corey went to the scene with a pumper and tanker and were joined later by two tankers of the Wallkill department summoned under the county mutual aid plan.

Corey said the building was almost totally burned when firemen arrived. The Blue Chip Farm, located on Hoagerburg Road about two miles west of Wallkill, is a well know horse farm and the barn was one of 11 on the premises used to house trotting and pacing horses.

Eleven young fillies quartered but not tethered in the pole barn were saved. Firemen remained on the scene until 7:30 a.m. as a precautionary measure.

Three Charged With Burglary

SAUGERTIES — Two teenage youths and a boy juvenile were taken into custody Wednesday by Hurley State Police on charges of burglary third degree that stemmed from an entry at a summer home in this township.

The names of the youths were not released because both are eligible for youthful offender action. The boy's name was withheld because of his age.

Trooper Norman L. Kilfoyle, who made the arrests arraigned the youths before Town Justice Michael E. Catalinotto, who released them pending further court proceedings. Police said the three were accused of entering a summer place owned by a Wagner family. A televison set allegedly was taken.

Three Injured In Accident

TOWN OF SAUGERTIES — A Saugerties woman and her two children were injured before noon Wednesday when the car in which they were riding was involved in a collision with another vehicle on Route 9W just north of the village line.

Town Police Chief Robert J. Riley investigated and reported the cars were driven by Mrs. Nancy A. Simmons, 29, of 18 Birchwood Drive, Saugerties, and Abraham Pinsker, 19, of 500A Grand Street, New York City. Both vehicles were northbound and Mrs. Simmons was attempting a turn into the Simmons Plaza when the accident occurred, police said.

Mrs. Simmons sustained neck and leg injuries. Her daughter, Simone, 3, and son, Daniel, both received multiple contusions. They were taken to Kingston Hospital by Saugerties Ambulance.

Another accident in this township was reported by State Police. Trooper Roy Martinussen's report noted that Thomas A. Gray, 33, of 1212 Northwest 99th Street, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, was driving his car south on Route 32 at 3:45 a. m. today when the vehicle entered the intersection of Route 212. The car veered off the road and crashed into a flower box in front of the Cloverleaf Hotel.

Gray was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Saugerties Ambulance. He was treated for lacerations and other injuries. Gray was cited for passing a flashing red light. The summons is returnable later before Town Justice Calvin Cody.

During the moratorium period no new applications for the placing of trailers on mobile homes in the township will be accepted.

That's what we're all about.

It was Thursday night. Vincent Nash of Liberty, N.Y. was driving through Pennsylvania with his family.

Suddenly, the night was pierced by the sound of an engine tearing itself apart. The Nash's car had "blown an engine". The mechanic said it was beyond repair. Ruined. And it looked like their vacation was too.

But it was far from over.

The next morning Mr. Nash, a long-time Marine Midland customer, phoned Vin Zanetti, an officer of the bank, and explained his predicament.

He was quickly reassured. Told to pick out a new car—that the bank would take care of the financial arrangements.

A loan was approved Friday. And the auto dealer was assured that Marine Midland would honor Mr. Nash's personal check for the car.

Everything worked out just fine. And the Nash's were on their way again—thanks to a helping hand by a friend.

We have many true stories like this. Examples of "personal service" in its truest sense. This is just one of them.

Three Bids Received on City Snowfighter Trucks

KINGSTON

The Board of Public Works received three bids from two municipal equipment companies for the purchase of four snowfighters, Wednesday afternoon in the BPW offices on East O'Reilly Street.

The Common Council, at its August meeting, had rejected a BPW proposal to purchase the snowfighters from Syracuse Truck Sales of Germantown at a cost of $147,500. Several aldermen claimed that the Walters snowfighters, as bid by William Clark Municipal Equipment Corp. of Rensselaer, at $147,447, were better trucks. Clark's low bid was rejected by the BPW because the trucks included automatic transmissions which were not called for in the specifications

This time, the board called for separate bids with automatic transmission and manual transmissions. The Clark company bid $138,435 on its Walters Model ZCQ, offering the same price for a truck with either a manual or automatic transmission. Clark bid $147,447 on its Model ECQ (a larger truck) with automatic transmission. It did not submit a bid for manual transmission on that truck

Syracuse Truck Sales lowered its bid on its four Oskosh model P2023-ICI trucks to $145,520 with a manual transmission. It did not bid on an automatic transmission.

The BPW set a delivery date of Dec. 15, which Clark said it could meet. Syracuse said it would give delivery in 60 after the acceptance of its bid by the Common Council officials hope to get the proposals to the Council by its Sept. 5 regular meeting. There is a penalty clause of $50 a day for failing to meet the delivery date.

PW Commissioners William Bodenweber and William H. Sill, members of the Equipment Committee, will review the bids and make their recommendations to the Finance Committee of the Common Council.

In other news from the Public Works Department, it was revealed today that the final cost of the emergency contract for storm sewage construction off Wilbur Avenue at the old city incinerator in July was $38,212. The contract was let to James Berardi Inc. on a cost-plus (15 per cent profit) basis. The profit part of it added up to $5,732.

It was also reported that the Traxcavator at the city landfill at Kingston Point, purchased for $21,031 in 1968, was repaired at a cost of $3,035 in May. Floweld Company of Germantown did the repair work.

Area Youths Plead Guilty During Trial

KINGSTON

Midway through the burglary trial of Gary Everett Joray, 18, and David Michael Whitworth, 24, both of Napanoch, the two defendants entered pleas of guilty in County Court Wednesday morning.

The pleas came after the prosecution rested its case. County Judge Raymond J. Mino will set a date for sentencing, pending a pre-sentence report of the Probation Department.

Joray, whose address is listed as 7 McBride Street and Whitworth of Yama Hills Road, were indicted by the Ulster County Grand Jury on charges arising out of the alleged entry into a building owned by Michael Luczkiew of Rt. 55, Napanoch. They were alleged to have remained in the building unlawfully with intent to commit larceny.

Assistant District Attorney John T. Dall Vechia represented The People and Frank Spada represented the defendants.

Guilty Plea On Drug Charge

NEW PALTZ

David A. LeClair, 23, of 22 Winter Street, Southbridge, Mass., was arrested at 12:15 a.m. today by New Paltz village police on a charge of possession of a dangerous drug, sixth degree.

Police Chief James Walrath said that LeClair was taken into custody by Patrolman Charles Walton and Patrolman William Taggart on Church Street when a quantity of marijuana was found in his possession.

LeClair pleaded guilty when arraigned before Town of New Paltz Justice Rexford Schneider, who fined him $100. LeClair was committed to the Ulster County Jail when he was unable to pay the fine.

The Other Day

Michael Leopold

We read that even before improvements in the self-pedalled bicycle, in 1868, someone brought out a motorcycle powered by a steam motor. It never became very popular, for how would you like to be sitting astride a pressurized tank of steam? About early automobiles they said, "It isn't the cost, but the upkeep that hurts most." A paraphrasing, of that would be, "It isn't the cost but the place where you buy that can mean most to you." In many a purchase the product itself is only HALF the purchase. The other half is the dealer and how much he is concerned for your continued welfare. And you should see our buys this week!

Zoning Law Hearing Held in Olive

WEST SHOKAN

Town of Olive residents, at least those who attended Tuesday night's public hearing in the town office building, are in favor of an interim zoning law for the town.

About 50 persons attended the hearing, the first of three to be conducted by Chairman Henry Rank and members of the town's Zoning Commission. A call for a show of hands by Rank disclosed that everyone present favored the idea of interim zoning.

The interim ordinance, if passed, would remain in effect for two years or until the town has had a chance to study and adopt a permanent ordinance. The interim ordinance provides for one and two-family residences on one-acre lots with a minimum frontage of 125 feet, no new businesses without zoning commission permission, and appointment of a zoning board of appeals and a zoning enforcement officer to check on violations.

Supervisor James Glemming said that a zoning ordinance is needed to regulate the growth of the town in an orderly manner. He cited the case of a man who planned to put an auto body repair shop in a residential area in Shokan as an example of unregulated growth. The move brought a petition with over 200 names to the town board opposing the business in that location, Glemming said.

The Zoning Commission will hold the second of its three required public hearings at 8 p. m. on August 22 in the Olivebridge Firehouse and the third at 8 p. m. on August 29 in the Shokan American Legion Hall.

The town board is expected to act on the proposed interim ordinance after the three hearings have been concluded and after the town board has held a public hearing on the matter, Glemming said.

Woodstock Rock Festival to Support McGovern

WOODSTOCK

The local McGovern campaign in Ulster County will benefit from a rock concert to be given Monday, Aug. 21 at the Woodstock Playhouse featuring the "Fabulous Rhinestones," "Orleans" and "Bonnie Raitt" among other rock and McGovern friends.

John Gramlich, director of the McGovern Headquarters in Kingston and Patricia Franz, concert coordinator, announced that all proceeds will go to McGovern '72.

The show will begin at 8 p. m. and tickets may be obtained at Yallum's and Abram's Music Store on Wall Street in Kingston and at McGovern Headquarters, 309½ Wall Street, Kingston.

"There's been a lot of talk about rock 'n roll," Miss Franz said, "but the 'Fabulous Rhinestones' haven't been talking much. Collectively they've been playing rock 'n roll for over 65 years. Over the past year and one-half they've been playing together at the Eagle Mountain House in Big Indian.

"Each Rhinestone is an individually hand polished gem to be treasured, not in a jewel box, but in your feet, heart and soul."

Harvey Brooks of the Rhinestones plays bass and is known for his countless sessions with Bob Dylan, Richie Havens and dozens of others.

Kal David vocals and plays lead guitar. He has also done much session work.

Greg Thomas on drums has played with Taj Mahal, John Simon, John Lee Hooker and Mike Bloomfield and friends, among others.

Marty Grebb is on keyboards and sax and made an album with Paul Butterfield and Jackie Lomax.

Terrel Eaton on sax, keyboards and flute has played with Woodstock Trucking and has done studio work with the Four Seasons.

The music is definitely "get up and dance rock n' roll, so get up and dance with the Fabulous Rhinestones," Miss Franz suggested. "If you can't dance just stand up and watch your feet move."

The Woodstock music scene which has come to closely resemble the Greenwich Village early sixties era has also created many New York groups including the Orleans, Gramlich said.

John Hall on vocals, guitar, pedal steel guitar, keyboard and drums began his musical career at the age of three. He has played the Peppermint Lounge in Georgetown, The Cafe Wha? in New York City and was a member of the Taj Mahal and has worked, performed and recorded with Dylan, Lomax and others.

Another member of the group, Wells Kelly, on vocals, bass, guitar and keyboard is an "astrologer, mystic and bartender-in-great demand" as he describes himself. He has played with the Blues Magoos, the Harvey Brooks group and the Boffolongo.

Larry Hoppen, the red-headed chisel of the group is on vocals, drums and guitar. He played in Ithaca with various rock groups including the Boffolongo.

Primarily on bass with Orleans, Larry, is all over the stage as he and Wells and John switch over from instrument to instrument performing mostly original tunes.

Bonnie Raitt, daughter of musical comedy star John Raitt, is a blues singer influenced by legendary giants "Mississippi" John Hurt, Son House and Robert Johnson. After a year in college at Cambridge, Mass., she played local clubs and went on to be a full time performer with engagements at the Gaslite in New York, the Main Point in Philadelphia and the Philadelphia Folk Festival.

Ulster Tabbed Nixon Site

KINGSTON

Ulster County has been chosen as the site of a seven-county regional headquarters for the Reelection of the President Richard M. Nixon, GOP County Chairman Albert Spada announced today.

Spada who was selected to organize and direct the headquarters activities by the National Republican Chairman Bob Dole, expressed pride in the fact that Ulster had been chosen for the honor from among the seven counties — Rockland, Orange, Sullivan, Delaware, Greene, Columbia and Ulster.

The mammoth headquarters will be located in the former DeWitt Cadillac showroom on Clinton Avenue in Kingston near Main Street and Albany Avenue.

An opening date will be announced for the headquarters which will accommodate 100 persons and will be equipped with telephones.

Spada said a huge one-day registration drive will be conducted in the near future in order to register prospective voters with about 400 persons volunteering to conduct the drive.

Spada, who is a delegate to the Republican National Convention, has also been appointed to the Committee on Permanent Organization at the convention. He was named to that post by State Chairman Charles T. Lanigan.

Dem Candidate Supports No-Fault

POUGHKEEPSIE

Philip J. Magnarella, Democratic candidate for the State Assembly from the 99th district, declared his support of a truly no-fault automobile insurance bill. He rejected as deceptive Emeel Betros' support of "a measure of no-fault," and declared that a no-fault bill that does not eliminate the need for long expensive court battles and reduce the cost of premiums is a perversion of the intention of no-fault.

"When people buy insurance," Magnarella stated, 'they want protection against the cost of an accident at the cheapest possible price. They want as much of their premium money as possible to go to accident victims.

"Under the present system only forty-four cents of every premium dollar goes to the accident victim. Thirty-three cents goes for insurance company operating costs and profits and twenty-three cents goes to adjusters and attorneys for arguing about who was at fault.

"Some lawyers make their entire living fighting these cases. However, one of every four accident victims who sues receives nothing. On the average, victims who are not seriously injured usually recover more than their economic loss while those seriously injured usually receive less.

"It was extremely unfortunate," Magnarella said, "that because of the influence of the Trial Lawyers Association, consideration of no-fault insurance in the legislature this year was dominated by political pressure rather than concern with the public interest.

"The members of the legislature must do what they feel is best for the thousands of people who elected them to office and not what a few trial lawyers want," he stated.

"What is needed," Magnarella said, "is a no-fault insurance that pays personal injury and property damage costs of an accident regardless of who is at fault."

"Under this system it would be possible to reduce premiums because the claim adjusters, attorneys and companies would need a smaller part of each premium dollar and fewer premium dollars would fulfill the needs of the accident victims.

Magnarella continued: "Not all lawyers and insurance companies pressured members of the legislature to oppose no-fault and I do not want to leave that impression. Nationwide the legal profession recognizes the need for no-fault. Recently at the National Conference of Commissioners of Uniform State Laws, a law more comprehensive than those in force in Massachusetts and Florida was considered.

We appreciate Mr. Betros' sympathetic concern for the fact that no-fault was not considered in the last assembly but sympathy is no substitute for action. I support no-fault automobile insurance. If elected, I will vote for it," concluded Magnarella.

Mrs. Linzey Named To SPCA Position

Mrs. Katherine Stoutenburgh, president of the Ulster County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, has announced the recent appointment of Mrs. Alice Linzey as office secretary at the society's shelter on Brabrant Road, Town of Ulster.

MRS. ALICE LINZEY

Mrs. Linzey has been associated with the SPCA for several years doing work at the shelter and assisting in taking care of the scores of homeless animals.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Adams. Her father is manager at the shelter. Mrs. Linzey resides at the facility's apartment on the Brabrant Road site.

"I am very happy to work with the animals," the office secretary said.

She has resided in the Saugerties and Kingston areas most of her life. She attended Saugerties High School. Mrs. Linzey is the mother of three children, Robin 9, Jill, 8 and Robert 6.

In addition to her duties as office secretary, which is quite a busy and responsible assignment, Mrs. Linzey assists by giving shots to puppies at the society's shelter.

Adult Dance Drama Course Opens to Public

NEW PALTZ

Acting For Adults, a non-credit course being offered through the Center of Continuing Education, State University College, New Paltz, is scheduled to start on Thursday, Sept. 14. This course is open to University students, staff, faculty, and to all adults of the Mid-Hudson Community. No previous acting experience or training is required to join this 14 weeks course.

For the beginning as well as the active student of the theatre, this course is listed as a practical study of contemporary acting techniques and their benefits as applied to everyday living experiences. Designed to introduce all fundamentals in stage acting, body movement, speech projection and characterization study, the course offers a positive approach to stage acting in the form of a workshop meeting one evening each week.

Ballet for Adults is a special 12 weeks course open to beginning adults with little or no formal dance training and offers an intermediate course for active dance students. Both divisions are accepting men and women for Wednesday evenings beginning Sept. 13.

This course in dance is designed to introduce the study and appreciation of ballet as an art form, applying its benefits to physical well-being and limbering. Class session include warm-up barre exercises, center floor, combinations in adagio and allegro and demonstrations and discussions.

Fred Douglass DeMayo, formerly of the Metropolitan Opera Ballet Company and one time producer and director in Legitimate theatre in New York, is conducting both courses. Active in New York as a performer, Mr DeMayo appeared in weekly television, musicals, plays and in major ballet.

Registration is required for both courses before August 25. Information may be obtained by contacting the Center for Continuing Education, New Paltz.

Third Friday Session Of Art Lectures

The first of two lectures in the series of "Four Fridays in August," organized by Anton Refregier for the benefit of the Woodstock Artists Association have been so successful that last Friday over 50 people were turned away at the door for lack of empty seats. Mr. Refregier has undertaken this vigorous program to hopefully catch the imagination of the people. In order to break down the presciousness of Art, let them hear from the Artists; study tendencies, recall history, evaluate discussion and create an "open forum" as did the first memorable evening on "Protest Art", in which the people who come respond to what they've seen.

On Friday evening, Aug. 18, Mr. Gaylord Leroy, professor of English at Temple University (formerly from University of Maine and University of Hawaii) will speak about the Cultural Situation Today: dominant trends. In a recent magazine article he wrote: "One gets a good idea of 'Counter Culture' from its chief advocate, Theodore Roszak, in the "Making of a Counter Culture". As described in the book, it stresses liberation through personal transformation (as opposed to transformations of institutions). Its aim is to change consciousness. It puts usual stress on the liberation of the deep self, the sub-rational, it urges the Revolt of the Unconscious . . . . For many people in the 60's, the Counter Culture performed a liberating role, things being what they were then — this was the only path towards revolt — but at somewhat later stage, primarily because of its middle class character — Counter Culture was bound to stand in the way of further Radicalization." . . . .

The lecture will start at 8:30 and a donation of a dollar is asked at the door. Art Students are admitted free to encourage young people and young artist to attend these evenings. So far there has been a sad shortage of young people in attendance.

Appearing for Club Luncheon Here

Last week, a young woman sat down at the piano and played for internationally acclaimed musicians Mr. and Mrs. Charles Libove who maintain a summer home in Shady, N.Y. Their opinion of her artistry was unanimous. "She shows enormous promise and has a fine future," they said.

The pianist-organist is Elizabeth A. Krouse of Kingston who has won equal praise from other top professionals including the Hudson Valley's foremost singer and vocal teacher Karen Ranung of West Park, and Pat Cummins of Woodstock, well know contralto.

Miss Krouse will add another leaf to her musical diary when she appears as accompanist for Dorothy A. Narel, women's page editor of THE DAILY FREEMAN, who will sing for the Kingston-Ulster County Christian Women's Club luncheon Monday, Aug. 21 at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Guest speaker for the 12 o'clock program will be Mrs. Ralph Howell, of Mill Neck, N.Y. wife of one of America's leading architects.

Miss Krouse won recognition for her exceptional keyboard artistry at an early age. She gave her first piano recital at the age of 13 and won critical acclaim from reviewer Julie Stewart who said: She played a most ambitious program, truly formidable for one so young showing there is technically very little that would seem beyond her powers."

ELIZABETH A. KROUSE

Miss Krouse has served as organist for St. John's Lutheran Church in Middletown; appeared on Teen Age Barn over WRGB-TV; is the winner of the Paderewski Medal presented at the National Piano Guild Auditions and during her student days won sustained critical praise from various music adjudicators.

She was graduated "With Honors" from Orange County Community College with the Class of 1968. As an undergraduate she received an award for outstanding scholastic achievements and service at an all-college awards convocaton. A member of the college music club, she accepted the honor from Dr. Robert T. Novak, president of OCCC and Robert Greenman, academic dean. Miss Krouse served as concert accompanist for all vocalists at OCCC, college concerts and has given church recitals. Currently she is substituting as organist in the Trinity Lutheran Church, Kingston, teaches piano students in her studio at 373 Broadway, this city, and serves as an accompanist. Music is her main interest and as Miss Krouse told The Freeman, "I want to make it a full time job."

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Krouse of Scotia, N.Y., Miss Krouse is the eldest of six children.

In addition to the featured speaker and music program on August 21 at the Governor Clinton Hotel, the Kingston-Ulster County Christian Women's Club will have a display of many handcraft articles. The afternoon is to be a "Country Fair Day" and women in the area are invited to join in the fun by wearing old fashioned country dresses if they so desire.

Toy Safety Controversy Still Raging

By GAY PAULEY
UPI WOMEN'S EDITOR

NEW YORK UPI — The continuing controversy about toy safety gets a midsummer airing, although the heaviest buying holiday season is months away.

What comes from the airing in which parents and experts "rap" are tips for safe toy play, news of new safety standards and durability criteria.

The tips for safe toy play agreed on! Think before you buy. Don't impulse buy. Read and keep informed of developments in toy safety.

Teach your child proper safe play with toys. Set good examples. Supervise toy play according to the situation. Consider the child's age, personality, surroundings and experience.

Check the broken toys. Repair or discard them. Protect the young child from the potentially dangerous toys of the older child.

Experts Meet with Mothers

The experts' meeting with three mothers "they're the experts when it comes to preventing accidents . . ." came about recently in Boca Raton, Fla., when the Toy Manufacturers of America, Inc., held a membership meeting.

The trade group set up a panel discussion, recorded the whole thing, then trimmed it to fit into a publication due in late August called "1 Ounce" as in "one ounce of prevention etc."

The women were Mrs. Marilyn Martin, mother of seven, president of Boca Raton Elementary School Parent-Teachers Organization PTO; Mrs. Sandara Grieser, mother of four, secretary of the PTO, and Mrs. Shirley Justin, mother of two, vice president of the J. C. Mitchell Parent Teachers Association PTA.

The others were Dr. Muriel Brown, consultant and former parent education specialist of the U.S. Children's Bureau; Dr. Frederick Richardson, director of the Miami Mailman Center for Child Development, and Dr. Walter L. Ross, president of the toy manufacturers.

Ross told the group the association's board of directors had approved unanimously a set of "comprehensive" safety standards that covered essentially the entire industry and submitted them to the National Board of Standards for action. The group agreed parents should keep informed of developments in toy safety.

The parents discussed the need for checking against sharp points, use of toxic materials possibly, flammable materials. Is lead free paint used? "Particularly when you've got a small child you've got to be more discriminating," said one.

On electrical toys, the women advised always giving special attention to their having the Underwriters Laboratory approval seal.

The women agreed that durability could be a relative thing, depending on the mature of the toy and the materials used in manufacture.

Northern Dutchess Mothers

Northern Dutchess Hospital Mothers Club is making final plans for its Arts and Crafts Show and Sale to be held at Rhinebeck Fair Grounds Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 29-Oct. 1. Hours will be Friday, 6 to 9 p.m., Saturday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Sunday 1 to 4 p.m.

There will be awards each day and a children's art corner. Many artists and craftsmen from neighboring states as well as from this area will participate by exhibiting their skills.

Proceeds will go toward the purchasing of equipment for the children's and maternity ward.

Craftsmen and artists are asked to contact Mrs. Louise Warnimont or Mrs. Fred (Effie) Johnson, both of Rhinebeck. Registration closes September 1.

Annual Smorgasbord

Upcoming events were discussed and committee chairmen named at a recent meeting of the executive board of Shady-Willow United Methodist Church.

The annual smorgasbord is planned for Saturday, Sept. 30 at 5:30 p.m. Mrs. Roger Yarter is chairman, assisted by the Mmes. Douglas Eighmey, Eugene Pettet, H. Phillips Eighmey, Arthur McDaniel, Henry P. Eighmey, and Miss Ethelyn Wilber. Ticket chairman is Mrs. Elizabeth MacDaniel of Woodstock.

The annual Christmas Shop will open October 21 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mrs. Henry P. Eighmey was appointed chairman.

Helpful Hints From Heloise for the Busy Woman

By HELOISE CRUISE

Dear Heloise:

Most sewing patterns call for five-eights of an inch seam allowance. To make the stitching easier, I put a three-inch strip of adhesive tape on my sewing machine — running back to front — five-eighths of an inch to the right of the needle.

Now when I feed the material under the foot of the machine, I just line it up against the tape and sew a perfect seam every time!

This has really speeded up and improved my sewing.

Jeanne Campbell

Dear Heloise:

I am one of those persons who wonder what to do when I can never get everything done.

My husband gave me this little thought and told me to read it and practice it every day:

"You can reduce your sense of hurry if you'll be realistic about your day's activities, refuse to let yourself be pulled in all directions.

Decide what things are important to you and do those. Let the others go.

You have to choose what things you wish to accomplish in your life and give yourself to these."

It does help and I hope it will help others.

Kathryn Smith

Dear Heloise:

This year I am highly pleased with a way of avoiding the messy cleanup job connected with putting paraffin in jam and jelly jars.

To melt the paraffin, I used a small loaf-sized foil bread-baking pan to hold the water. (It shapes out easily to cover the small burner, and holds plenty of water.)

Put the dry paraffin in an empty food can — ordinary store-type — slightly pinching the open end to form a pouring spout.

Put this can into the water and let the wax melt. Then simply pour the paraffin into your waiting, filled jars.

It was neat and efficient and the can lasted all season.

After canning season was over, I just threw it all away — no trouble at all!

Edith Colwell

Dear Heloise:

Is this a discovery, or did everyone know it but me? That you don't have to peel an onion to slice it!

The peeling comes off when you separate the slices!

The piece of onion you do not use would stay fresher, too, with the peeling left on.

Do try it.

J.S.A.

What this woman is saying, and which I have found to be absolutely true — after peeling onions of all sizes — the yellow and white, too . . . is:

When you pick up an onion out of that bag, don't bother to peel it.

Slice it any way, then remove the peel and discard it!

Now wasn't she fantastic to figure that one out? I cannot possibly thank this darling enough, nor will anyone else who tries it.

Thanks a million, June (I just had to use your first name), and it's a darn shame that you did not get credit by using your last hame so everyone would know who you are.

Love,
Heloise

THE MANY LIVES OF THE MATURE WOMAN

Today's woman is changing almost as rapidly as our world is changing. The more complex society becomes, the more varied are her roles in life. And often — all the more difficult. Besides being a wife and mother, she's a consumer, a purchasing agent, and often a full-time member of the labor force, while — at the same time — seeking her identity and searching for fulfillment. Then as she matures, she faces the additional challenge of maintaining a positive view of herself in the midst of our youth culture. These are but some of the stimulating changes confronting today's mature woman. We'll take an in-depth look at them in this special five-part Sunday feature.

1. HER LIFE AS A PARENT
Understanding her teen-age children, while maintaining her own adult values.

2. HER LIFE AS A CONSUMER
How she copes with the high cost of living, and who's helping her cope.

3. HER WORKING LIFE
Finding a place for herself in the labor market.

4. HER SEX LIFE
How she meets the challenge of the male-female relationship.

5. HER LIBERATED LIFE
The problems of becoming a person in her own right.

Rock Musical Rocks the Boat!

By DOROTHY A. NAREL

THE ME NOBODY KNOWS, now on stage at Hyde Park Playhouse, is a lot more than just a new rock musical. It's a commentary on life in the ghettos of Harlem, Bedford-Stuyvesant, Jamaica, Manhattan. It's lyrics sear the revered institutions of education, religion, love and marriage. It is both brutal and beautiful, violent and subtle. It is told in the contemporary language of children and rock music.

This is a musical worth seeing. It is a production for the reformer, the do-gooder, the unbeliever, the cynic, in short — a play for everyone. If you've had any doubts about what life is like in the ghetto, see THE ME NOBODY KNOWS. Its message to us all comes through loud and clear.

A talented cast of 12 carries the production through two fast-moving acts. In the production are Jill Streisant, Trudy Bordoff, Jose Fernandez, Vikki Lynn Carter, Timothy Smith, Margery Cohen, Jean Winston, Ray Shell, Stephen Fenning, Bobby London, Kevin Lindsay and Louise Heath. These youngsters give smooth, polished and top professional performances.

The interesting feature of this rock musical, which will be touring in England soon, is that the spoken text was actually written by children between the ages of 7-18 attending New York City public schools. What could be more direct than a child's thoughts? As an example, the lyrics to FUGUE FOR FOUR GIRLS, REJOICE, THE HORSE and WAR BABIES are all children's poems and are presented exactly as they wrote them. The lyrics to DREAM BABIES, THIS WORLD and SOMETHING BEAUTIFUL were written by Herb Schapiro. All of the other lyrics were written by Will Holt.

One of the truly outstanding production songs includes NUMBERS. It is a satirical musical statement about the educational system in ghetto sections. It packs quite a punch.

The selection TAKE HOLD THE CRUTCH crucifies religion and religious institutions for its lack of constructive help while I LOVE WHAT THE GIRLS HAVE is a blatant report of the sex lives of those trapped in their environment. The song JAIL-LIFE WALK is another eye-opener about the loneliness felt by a teenager behind bars.

The musical selection SOUNDS is exceptional but it's the song, LET ME COME IN that will move anyone.

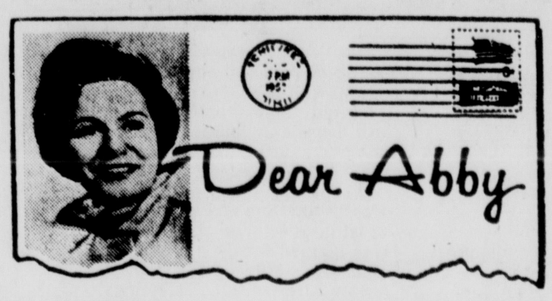

The production is anything but somber for it has many moments of comic relief. One in particular relates to pigeons — there isn't anything subtle about these lyrics.

Peter O'Rourke is to be commended for introducing THE ME NOBODY KNOWS to our rather sterile communities. It's a play that should be seen. It will be staged at Hyde Park Playhouse through Saturday's two evening performances.

I recommend it highly.

Nudity in the Home? Pull Down Shades

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN.
© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Please give me your opinion on this subject as it seems to be "law" with the women in McLean, Texas.

I am new in this town and the townspeople appear to be feeling me out. At work the other day some women asked me what I sleep in, and I said, "Nothing." It's true. Well, I was told I was no lady!

Abby, I enjoy sleeping in the nude. In fact, I also enjoy doing my housework in the nude, (privately, and with all the shades drawn, of course) and what is more I like to cook in the nude. I see nothing wrong with it, but these Texas women are ready to run me out of town on a rail.

I live alone, so why can't I do as I please? Are you with me?

NEW IN TOWN

DEAR NEW: I'm with you. But do put an apron on when you're frying bacon. And watch the wringer.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Ho-whom. I just read the following sentence in one of your columns: "You will always be your mother's daughter regardless of whom your father's wife is."

Abby, you could not possibly have committed so horrendous a grammatical crime, so it must have been your secretary, a proofreader or printer. Regardless of "whom" it is, Kall the Kulprit on the Karpet and Kastigate him, her or it Kategorically.

TONY THE STICKLER IN CANOGA PARK, CAL.

DEAR TONY: I'll take my lumps when I goof, but this time I'm not guilty. The word was correctly "Who" in the copies sent to all the newspapers carrying my column. For some reason, ONE newspaper (with a circulation of almost a million) changed my "who" to "whom." (Oh, would that they had changed my "whom" to "who" when recently I erroneously wrote, 'Whom shall I say is calling?")

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been an invalid for 10 years. I have been willing to take him on trips for vacations twice a year, but he refuses to go because he would have to go in a wheelchair, and this he refuses to do.

Do you think I should give up all future vacations which include travel? I have opportunities to go with tour groups thru my husband's business associations. No hanky panky. Just a change of scenery, which I would so love.

My husband would have good loving care from our children, and they think I should go. I'd never be gone for more than 10 days. Should I go or not?

CABIN FEVER IN ILLINOIS

DEAR FEVER: How does your husband feel about it? If he wants you to go, then go. If he doesn't, altho it would be selfish of him, stay home. You wouldn't have a good time if you went and took a nagging conscience with you.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO ALL WHO WROTE OFFERING TO GIVE ANNIE A HOME: Rest assured, that 12-year-old orphan who was being abused in a foster home is now with a family who loves her and are taking good care of her. I was overwhelmed by the number of readers who wrote and offered to give Annie a home. God bless you. People ARE wonderful!

Open House and Exhibition Set

People who enjoy art and wish to see what young people are producing will not want to miss the festive Open House and Student Exhibition at the Jane Burr House this Saturday, from 2 to 5 p.m. This annual event will be highlighted by the announcement of the winner of the $100 award made available through the Arnold Blanch Memorial Fund. Work shown in the exhibition has been done this summer by the seven students in residence — three boys who live in the barn together, and four girls who have separate rooms in the main house. Most of these students have been studying at the Art Students League Summer School or have been working independently. The Artwork on exhibit will be for sale.

Guests at the Open House will have the opportunity to browse through the Burr House, a lovely Colonial house with six bedrooms, a large barn, and separate kitchen. Refreshments will be served. The Burr House was willed to the Woodstock Artists Association by Rose Guggenheim Winslow in 1959 to contribute to the creative life of Woodstock. The Woodstock Artist Association decided that it would be best to use the property as a summer residence for art students and young artists. This has presented an opportunity unique in Woodstock for dedicated young artists to have adequate housing at minimal cost. Through the years the problem of inexpensive housing for young artists has been a serious one, now more so than ever. At present, the Burr House is the sole facility trying to solve this, and deserves strong support for its continued and solitary efforts to meet one of Woodstock's oldest needs.

Students who choose to spend the summer at Burr House and are accepted, live inexpensively in an atmosphere that encourages artistic growth. The community of Woodstock benefits greatly by having these young and serious students taking part in the activities of the town. They bring youth, vitality, and fresh ideas to the growing town. Many of these young artists, who come from all over the United States, often continue to stay on in the winter, or come back later on to live in Woodstock.

Bill and Paula Dooley, the couple in residence, have managed the Burr House and its affairs for the past four years. The newly elected Chairman on the Executive Board of the Woodstock Artists Association is the painter, Michael Densen. Evening activities have been expanded, with the help of Eva Plaut to include slide seminars in various movement and directions in Nineteenth and Twentieth Century art.

The Burr House is located about one mile from Woodstock, off Route 212 towards Bearsville on Spear Road. Those who are concerned with the reality and potential of Burr House are urged to attend the Open House Exhibition on Saturday afternoon.

Spider Nelson Spins Yanks

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Roger "The Spider" Nelson of the Kansas City Royals may be on his way to becoming the best pitcher in the American League at 28 . . . ailing hand and all.

Nelson won his sixth game against four defeats Wednesday night when he tossed a six-hitter to edge the New York Yankees 3-2.

His 1.90 earned run average ranks third among starters in the AL. Nelson has allowed only five earned runs in his last 45 innings.

"I always have trouble with the Yankees," said Nelson, who has thrown shutouts in three of his last five starts. "It's funny, Ive never had trouble with Bobby Murcer in the big leagues until tonight. He hit me pretty good."

Murcer collected three of the Yankees' six hits, a single, a double and a home run, his 22nd of the season.

"In 1964," Nelson said, "Murcer hit me good when we were in the Florida State League. After that, I'd always been able to get him out."

Nelson wasn't even on the Royals' roster in spring training but was assigned to their Omaha farm club in the American Association. When the season started, he went to the Kansas City bullpen and impressed Manager Bob Lemon with his relief appearances.

Nelson was 1-1 when he was inserted into the starting rotation. Two of his losses have been 2-0. He had a string of 24 2-3 scoreless innings a couple of weeks ago.

Nelson has poor circulation in his pitching hand but said starting "has helped it because I don't pitch every day like I did in the bullpen. The fingers don't hurt like they did but I still know something's wrong with the hand. One finger stays cold most of tne time."

Murcer's single in the seventh inning was the only hit off Nelson over the last five innings. Nelson got back at Murcer after that hit by picking him off of second base.

The Royals got the winning run in the seventh when Cookie Rojas hit a leadoff double, went to third on a groundout and scored on John Mayberry's single.

Murcer's home run put Yankees ahead in the first. Richie Scheinblum's run-scoring single tied it in the last of the first.

Johnny Callison led off the second with a double and went home on Gene Michael's single. The Royals bounced back again in the third with two out on Fred Patek's single, his steal of second and Steve Hovley's single.

Fritz Peterson, 13-12, went all the way for New York.

The Yankees' defeat left them right where they started the game—two games out of first in the AL East and in third place behind Baltimore and Detroit.

No Records

"I'm not looking at records" says Chicago's amazing Wilbur Wood. "I'm still a relief pitcher at heart, pitching one batter, rather than one game, at a time."

That's the approach to the game of baseball—or rather the artistry of pitching—by the 30-year-old knuckleballer, a refugee from the bullpen, the winningest hurler in the major leagues this season.

Wednesday's performance was hardly one of his more successful efforts of the year. He was clipped for 10 hits and five runs by Milwaukee and departed after only 6 1-3 innings.

But he'd hung around long enough to record his 21st victory—and that was good enough for Chicago Manager Chuck Tanner, who said: "I got no complaints. Woody won the game."

The White Sox 8-6 triumph over the Brewers, coupled with Oaklands 4-3 victory over Baltimore Wednesday night, enabled the White Sox to remain within a game of the front-running A's in the American League's tight West Division race.

Elsewhere in the American League, California edged Cleveland 2-1 and Texas topped Boston 9-8 in 10 innings. Minnesota's game at Detroit was rained out.

Too High

"My delivery was too high right from the first inning," said Wood, who has lost 11 games this year. "The ball was moving good, but with a knuckler, if it's too high, it loses its effectiveness"

The White Sox gave him a 6-0 lead to work with. In the second inning, Luis Alvarado hit a three-run inside-the-park home run and, in the third, Rick Reichardt drilled a two-run ple, then scored on Carlos May's double.

But it was a pair of runs in the sixth—obtained without benefit of a hit—that provided the winning margin. They came on three walks and a pair of grounders.

Epstein Homers

Mike Epstein's eighth-inning, tie-breaking home run, Oakland's third solo shot of the game, downed the Orioles. Bert Campaneris and Angel Mangual hit the others.

Clyde Wright won his 14th game for the Angels, turning back Cleveland on four hits. Vida Pinson scored both California runs, the latter on Ken McMullen's tie-breaking single in the ninth.

And Tom Grieve broke Boston's back with a two-out homer in the bottom of the 10th inning for the Rangers. Carl Yastrzemski had a solo homer and Reggie Smith unloaded a grand-slammer for the Red Sox.

NEW YANKEE STADIUM — Those local baseball fans who were at the Yankee Stadium Sunday for Mike Ferraro Day will have a hard time believing that the Bronx ballpark will look like this when a major face-lifting is completed in 1976. Work will begin after the 1973 season, according to an agreement signed Wednesday by the City of New York and the

Aaron's Magic Number Is 50

NEW YORK (AP) — The magic number for Hank Aaron is 50.

Fifty more home runs and the slugging outfielder of the Atlanta Braves will tie Babe Ruth's career total of 714, the all-time home run record in major league baseball.

Aaron connected for No. 664 of his career and 25th this season in the eighth inning at Shea Stadium Wednesday night, helping the Braves beat the New York Mets 3-1.

"That extra run gave me a little more confidence," commented winning pitcher Phil Niekro.

He needed it in the ninth when a single by John Milner and a double by Duffy Dyer with two out put the tying runs in scoring position and brought alive the crowd of 33,827.

Niekro then got pinch-hitter Cleon Jones to end the game on a drive to left center which Ralph Garr speared with a leaping one-handed catch.

Garr had started the Braves' two-run rally in the sixth that put them ahead 2-1. He singled off losing pitcher Jon Matlack. Darrell Evans also singled and Aaron was walked intentionally, loading the bases. Garr scored the tying run on a forceout by Earl Williams, then Dusty Baker singled to left, scoring Evans with the go-ahead run.

The Mets had taken a 1-0 lead in the second on Dyer's double and Ted Martinez' single. After they fell behind in the top of the sixth, the Mets threatened in their half. They had men on first and second, but Ken Boswell hit an inning-ending grounder on the first pitch.

Reliever Gary Gentry was the victim of Aaron's home run over the left field fence in the eighth.

For 26 innings, the Los Angeles Dodgers were giving people the willies.

They got some of their own medicine back Wednesday night.

Willie Stargell erased earlier damage done by Los Angeles' Willie Davis with a two-run homer in the ninth inning to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a dramatic 3-2 victory.

Davis, who had won two previous games with homers, put the Dodgers into a 2-0 lead with a two-run double in the second inning. It lasted until the final frame, when the Pirates scored three times to beat Don Sutton.

Stargell's wallop followed a run-scoring single by Al Oliver and marked the 18th time this season that the Pirates have won games in the ninth inning. The National League's East leaders, who boosted their lead to 10 games over the New York Mets, have also come from behind to win 33 times this year.

In the other National League games, the Cincinnati Reds ripped the Philadelphia Phillies 8-2; the Houston Astros trimmed the Montreal Expos 5-0; the San Francisco Giants smashed the Chicago Cubs 14-9; and the St. Louis Cardinals beat the San Diego Padres 6-4.

American League scores: Chicago 8, Milwaukee 6; Kansas City 3, New York 2; Oakland 4, Baltimore 3; California 2, Cleveland 1 and Texas 9, Boston 8 in 10 innings. Rain postponed Minnesota at Detroit.

Sutton was pitching a four-hitter for Los Angeles through eight innings before Pittsburgh rallied in the ninth. Dave Cash led off with a double, took third on a balk by Sutton, and scored on Oliver's single. Stargell then produced.

Tony Perez knocked in four runs, two with a homer, to pace a 13-hit attack that powered Cincinnati past hapless Philadelphia. The loser was Ken Reynolds, who dropped his 10th game without a victory this year.

"I think he lost his composure," said Philadelphia Manager Paul Owens of Reynolds, who failed to last the first inning. "I don't know what else you'd call it. He was throwing all over the place."

Bob Watson and John Edwards each drove in two runs and Don Wilson spun a five-hitter, leading Houston over Montreal. The Astros took the lead with two runs in the fourth on a single by Watson and Edwards' sacrifice fly.

Houston scored three more times in the sixth, helped by three Montreal errors. Watson drove in one run with a squeeze bunt, his third hit of the game. Edwards drove in another with a base hit and Doug Rader singled home the final run of the inning.

San Francisco crushed Chicago with a 20-hit offense, including four by Ken Henderson and three by Tito Fuentes and Dave Rader. Henderson drove in five runs with his hits, one of them a three-run homer, and Fuentes knocked in four.

The Cubs had 15 hits, including a homer by Jose Cardenal in the seventh when they scored five runs.

Dusty Baker singled home the tie-breaking run in a two-run sixth inning and Hank Aaron blasted the 664th home run of his career to help Atlanta defeat New York. The home run put Aaron an even 50 in back of Babe Ruth's career record 714.

Luis Melendez hit a two-run homer in the second inning and Ted Sizemore singled home what proved to be the winning run in the sixth that gave Bob Gibson and St. Louis a triumph over San Diego.

Nate Colbert belted his 33rd home run—tops in the majors this year—for the losers.

What About Giants?

NEW YORK (UPI)—Yankee Stadium is the House that Ruth built" and that Mayor John V. Lindsay chose to remodel.

Lindsay signed an agreement with the New York Yankees Wednesday afternoon that would allow the baseball club to use the stadium through next season and to return at the start of the 1976 season.

The city became the owner of Yankee Stadium on Aug.8 in condemnation proceedings in State Supreme Court. The term of its lease with the Yanks depends on attendance receipts.

The Stadium will be closed down and undergo extensive repairs in 1974 and 1975 the mayor announced. A chief feature of the remodeling will be the removal of pillars which have obstructed the view of sports fans. The pillars will be relocated at the back of the stadium.

The New York Yankees will play in Shea Stadium, home of tthe Mets, while the remodeling is being undertaken. No plans have been finalized for the New York Giants of the National Football League, who move to New Jersey in 1975. They are seeking a home for the 1974 season.

City Corporation Counsel Norman Redlich made public a letter he wrote to them offering them a lease on the stadium for 1973 at terms which he said would be comparable to what they had paid the Yankees. They now plan to move to the new sports complex in the Jersey Meadowlands.

Lorilyn Fabiano Yankee 'Good Kid'

KINGSTON

Ten-year-old Lorilyn Fabiano of the Flatbush Road, Town of Ulster, was picked as the "Yankee Good Kid" Sunday during Mike Ferraro Day ceremonies at Yankee Stadium.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cosmo (Dom) Fabiano. Lorilyn will receive box seat tickets and have her picture taken with Yankee players some time during the next home stand of the Yankees.

Trevino Claims He's 'Ready to Go'

SUTTON, Mass. (UPI) —Lee Trevino, proclaiming he was "ready to go" after a bout with a severe cold, headed a field of 144 entrants today in the first round of the $200,000 USI Classic at Pleasant Valley Country Club.

Trevino, golf's colorful "Super Mex," arrived here late Wednesday after illness had forced him to miss a practice round and the pro-am tournament.

Trevino, who stopped Jack Nicklaus' bid for a grand slam with a one-stroke victory in the British Open, is second to Nicklaus on the Professional Golf Association tour this year with $134,097 in earnings.

Nicklaus, who has won $240,415, including $50,000 in the Westchester Classic last weekend, did not enter the USI and has not played at Pleasant Valley since he failed to make the cut in the Carling Open seven years ago.

At stake here is $40,000 in first prize money.

Five other members of golf's top 10 joined Trevino in the field — George Archer, Jerry Heard, Jim Jamieson, Tommy Aaron and Grier Jones.

Defending champion Dave Stockton, who won the Massachusetts Classic here last year, will be trying to get his game going again. Stockton failed to make the cut in the Westchester Classic and has been working out at Pleasant Valley since Saturday.

Tournament officials said the 7,212-yard, par 72 course was in excellent condition for the four-day, 72-hole classic.

AWAITING WORD—Ethiopian athletes Gebre Icsfazghi (L) and Salomon Belay stroll through Olympic village in Munich Wednesday. The Ethiopian Olympic team went to bed amidst mounting rumors it would be withdrawn from the Olympic games because of Rhodesia's participation. (UPI)

Brundage: Another Fight

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — Avery Brundage, preparing to step down as president of the International Olympic Committee, acted like a man who welcomed the chance to bow out fighting.

Still athletic looking at 84 years of age, Brundage was in a jovial mood as he talked to a small group of reporters Wednesday about what will likely be his final—and one of the toughest—fights of his 20 years in office.

His opponent this time is not professionalism or commercialism, but politics—in the form of a burgeoning black African movement to boycott the Munich Olympic Games because of participation by athletes from the breakaway British colony of Rhodesia.

'We cannot tolerate political interference," Brundage said after putting the boycotters on notice that their national Olympic committees stand to be dropped from the IOC and their athletic teams disqualified from future Olympic competition.

T'his is one of the most serious issues yet," he said. "Naturally, the people who furnish the money want to take charge. But we can and will resist this with the help of local people. We've done it before successfully."

He admitted that he was 'worried and concerned who my successor will be. We are at a crucial point of the Olympic movement. Just look at this political interference."

Ten days before the start of the Games, seven African states had served notice that their teams would not participate if the Rhodesians did.

Brundage insists the Rhodesians will remain since they are adhering to conditions the Africans themselves prescribed last year. These included marching under the old colonial flag with the Union Jack, accepting the designation of Southern Rhdesia and observing "God Save the Queen" as Rhodesia's national anthem.

Brundage's successor is expected to be elected during the pre-Olympics IOC meeting here. The plenary session opens on Aug. 21.

Two leading prospects for the post are IOC Vice Presidents Lord Killanin of Ireland and Count Jean De Beaumont of France.

Looking back on his 20-year reign, Brundage said, 'I don't regret having taken the job, exhausting as it sometimes was. I don't regret it at all. I do believe that the Olympic movement is the greatest social force in the world. I had a lot of work, some grief but also much happiness. The Olympics are something worth working—and living—for."

U.S. Hoopsters Sharpen Up

BUFFALO (AP) — The U.S. Olympic Basketball Team polished off another squad of professionals, 76-65, Wednesday night, making Olympic Coach Hank Iba eager to reach Munich.

The game was close only in the first half when a 27-27 tie developed on an underhand basket by Dennis Wuycik.

But in the final 6½ minutes of the half, a rally sparked by Dwight Jones outstripped the pros 22-6 and put the Olympians in a commanding 49-33 lead at intermission. They were not threatened the rest of the way.

Jones paced the Olympic squad with 21 points, while teammates Tom Henderson and Doug Collins each added 10 points.

Hometown favorite Randy Smith of the Buffalo Braves led the pros with 14 points.

The victory gave the Olympians a complete sweep of the five-game exhibition series preceding their departure to Munich Friday.

Asked about the prospects of the team, Iba said, "They're young and short on experience, but they're big, aggressive and enthusiastic. They have a lot of potential, but have to learn to be a little more careful."

The team is scheduled to have tea today with President Nixon.

Two Straight for Mizerak

CHICAGO (UPI)—Steve Mizerak of Woodbridge, N.J., scored another victory Wednesday night in his bid for a third straight men's title at the $25,000 U.S. Open Pocket Billiard Championships here.

Mizerak, a school teacher, ran 114 balls in less than 25 minutes to down Frank McGown of Monroe, N.Y., 150 to 79 in a four-inning, second round contest.

In other key second round action, veterans Luther "Wimpy" Lassiter and Irving "The Deacon" Crane recovered from surprising first round defeats to score second round victories and remain in contention for the men's title in the double elimination tourney.

Lassiter, from Elizabeth City, N.C., downed Andrew Tennent of Madison, Wis., 150 to 88 in 14 innings.

Crane, from Rochester, N.Y., defeated Jim Rempe, a 23-year-old pro from Scranton, Pa., 150 to 28 in 10 innings.

Schenectady OTB to Accept Betting on Belmont Races

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) — Schenectady Off-Track Betting Corp. officials are preparing to take bets on thoroughbred racing at Belmont beginning Aug. 28.

OTB President Davis Etkins announced Wednesday that the Parimutuel Clerks Union had agreed to an arrangement settled on earlier by the New York Racing Association. The city OTB system will take bets on Belmont through the season there and then switch to Aqueduct.

The Saratoga Thoroughbred track, which closes its season at the end of the month, is specifically excluded from the agreement, Davis said, adding that he still hopes to reach agreement with Saratoga Harness.

"With this agreement and the betting we have been taking on harness racing at Monticello Raceway, we should take in 'that would allow us to begin $15,000 a day," Davis said, making a profit."

Schenectady's OTB operation, the second in the state, opened last month.

New PB Grid Coach

PINE BUSH

John Shaugnessy has been named the new varsity football coach at Pine Bush High School, one of nine coaching changes announced by Athletic Director Don Hauck.

Shaugnessy, who won five consecutive UCAL titles as track and field coach, replaces Hauck at the football helm and retains his track position for the spring. Ed Duncanson will replace Shaugnessy as Pine Bush pool director.

A junior varsity coach for four years, Shaugnessy served as backfield coach under Hauck for the past two years. Tony Licardi has been named the new varsity line coach, while Vito Colletta, who coached at the junior level last year, will take over Licardi's junior varsity position. The new junior high coach is Pat Matazara.

Other coaching changes announced by Hauck included George Druttman's replacement of Pat Doyle as varsity basketball coach and New Paltz State grad Brahim Zogby's selection for junior varsity basketball coach.

Steve LaTurco, also a graduate of New Paltz State where he was captain of the wrestling team last year, will take over as junior varsity wrestling coach and assist Bob Bender at the varsity level.

A modified soccer program will also begin at Pine Bush in the fall under the direction of instructional coaches Al Tuthill and John Kiernan.

PAUSE THAT REFRESHES — Not minding cameramen or candy wrappers Minnesota Vikings quarterback Fran Tarkenton pauses between practice sessions for a game of chess. Tarkenton, the original Viking quarterback drafted in 1961, rejoined the team after five seasons with the New York Giants (UPI)

Big Test for Roman

Roman Gabriel will find out this weekend just how far he's come back from his collapsed lung.

Tommy Prothro, head coach of the Los Angeles Rams, said Wednesday that Gabriel will be the starting quarterback Saturday when his club takes on the Oakland Raiders in a National Football League pre-season game. Gabriel suffered a collapsed lung on the opening day of practice three weeks ago and has been rebuilding his stamina slowly.

"I haven't been aware of the lung problem the last four or five days," Gabriel said. "I feel I'm getting the wind capacity I had before the injury. I think everything's going to be alright."

Prothro hopes so. His two reserves haven't exactly set the world on fire. Veteran Jerry Rhome and John Walton, a taxi-squad aged rookie, have thrown seven interceptions in the two pre-season contests Gabriel has sat out.

Prothro has not decided how long Gabriel will play against the Raiders, one of the hardest pass-rushing teams in the league, but in all probability, it will be no longer than a half.

There is a full schedule this weekend. Minnesota is at Buffalo and Washington plays host to Philadelphia Friday night while in other Saturday games, San Francisco is at San Diego, Miami is at Cincinnati, Denver is at St. Louis, Houston plays host to Green Bay, Atlanta entertains Pittsburgh and Dallas is at New Orleans. On Sunday, the New York Jets and New York Giants meet at New Haven, Conn., Detroit takes on Cleveland at Ann Arbor, Mich., and Chicago is at New England. Baltimore is at Kansas City in a Monday night game.

In other news from the training camps Wednesday, the Houston Oilers traded veteran quarterback Charley Johnson to the Denver Broncos for an undisclosed draft choice. Johnson, a 10-year veteran, will battle Don Horn and Steve Ramsey for the starting job. Another quarterback, seven-year vet John Stofa, was dropped by the Broncos.

Minnesota cut veteran offensive tackle Sam Walton and three free agents and the St. Louis Cardinals said that veteran guard Joe O'Donnell has retired for the second time and has been released.

Capri Checks Bud's, 11-10

The Murderers' Row from Bud's Subs continued their assault on the fences and their home run races with each other, but midst the five clubbed out of Block Park managed to lose an 11-10 SPL battle to Capri 400.

Jack Macks pounded Garden of Eden, 19-7, and Esposito's rallied for a 9-4 win over Boiceville I in other games on the card.

Bob Smith's grand slam in the second put Capri out in front, and the winners had a nine-run bulge after five. But even that seemed insecure when Bud's finally got untracked. Earl Edmunds upped his league leading circuit total to 11 to start the sixth, then Dink Dugan blasted No. 9 and Tim Bowens followed with his first of the night and ninth of the season.

Dave Meeks' two-run shot capped the seven-run burst and Bowens cut the spread to one with his second homer in the seventh, but the Capri defense stiffened to give Gary Barnes the victory.

Frank Spinnenweber rapped a double, single, three home runs and scored four times to pace Jack Macks' triumph. Wayne Johnson chipped in with two homers, and Chick Boice and Ray Lindhorst one each to pad the victory.

Spinnenweber led the whole thing off with a hit and came up the second time in the first inning and hit the first of his home runs. Jack Macks scored nine in the frame and were never headed. John Armstrong slammed his tenth for the losers, and R. C. Wilson also homered.

Espositos went an extra inning to put Boiceville away. Tied 4-4 after seven, the winners staged a five-run rally while Skip Aiello blanked Boiceville in the bottom half for the win.

Rich Sickler and Joe Clausi slammed four hits apiece off John Stelcon to pace the attack.

Teacher's Faith Paid Off . . . Big

CANANDAIGUA, N.Y. (AP) — Spencer Morgan, a janitor and Sunday-school teacher, believes it takes faith to play the horses.

Morgan's faith paid off Tuesday, as he collected $24,680.80 on a winning $2 ticket he bought in Finger Lakes Race Track's Superfecta betting feature.

Morgan, 62, of Geneva, described this philosophy: "It takes faith. I believed all along I'd catch one of those big payoffs and I believe I'll catch it again."

Bo Scots Grabs Mile for Mares

MONTICELLO — It was the four-year-old pacers' turn at Monticello Raceway Wednesday night with the mile for mares going to Bo Scots Horn by a half length over Adora's Nicki, ad Worthy Susie well-back by seven and a half lengths in third. Bo Scots Horn, by Cape Horn, went off a 1-5 wagering choice and was second alomst the entire distance, moving out in the stretch to overcome Adora's Nicki in 2:05.2 and pay $2.60, $2.10 and $2.10.

It was the eighth victory in 18 outings this year for Bo Scots Horn, owned by William and Mrs. Arlene McGee of Anesvoort, New York, with the winner's share of the $10,509 purse boosting her earnings to over $28,000.

Clint Galbraith made a race of it by taking Adora's Nicki to the front from the inside post and doing a good job of holding the lead even midway through the stretch.

Contemplate, driven by Jim Arthur, won the $10,541 pace for horses and geldings, winning by a length over Wanaque and Worthy Coin in 2:02.4. The four year old gelding by Greentree Adios, owned by Allwood Stable of Far Hills, New Jersey, took the lead as they went past the quarter pole and held on the rest of the distance. It was only his second victory in 16 outings this year, but the winner's share of the purse put Contemplate over the lifetime earning mark of $100,000. Contemplate paid $6.80, $3.80 and $2.40.

Jimmy Tallman brought Torpid Helga out of last place in a $14,120 New York Sire Stakes feature at Saratoga Harness Wednesday night to a one-length victory and a new national season's record of 2:03 2-5 for a mile pace by a 2-year-old filly.

Bo Scots Taffy came home second and Sweet OBrien was third. The win payoff was $6.20.

In a $13,780 sires division pace at Saratoga, Valentine Miss paid $17.80 after outdistancing Holly Baloo and Tara Row Gil. Bill Andrews drove the winner.

At Vernon Downs, Matador H returned $30.60 and set a new life mark of 2:01 2-5 for the mile with a three-quarter length victory over J J Scarlet in the featured $1,600 pace. Teeni Time was the show horse. Tony Mondi drove Matador H into the lead at the start and never gave way.

Sure Shot Annie surged ahead on the final turn to beat the favored Trim Shooter by a head in the featured $2,800 seventh race at Batavia Downs. Ronald Chase guided the winner over the mile trot in 2:11 4-5 for mutuel return of $9.40. Mr. C D finished third.

Zeeh Brothers Win Second Redwood Doubles Laurels

KINGSTON — The Kingston brother combination of Pete and Bill Zeeh defeated Keith Kaback and Sam Markovite in straight sets, 7-6, 6-4 and 6-2, to win the doubles championship of the Redwood Open Doubles Tennis Tournament.

The Zeeh brothers, who also captured the title two years ago, played to a 6-6 tie in the first set but rallied to take the tie breaker, 5-2.

Some costly mistakes hurt Markovits and Kaback in the second set. Leading 3-1 and ahead 40-love in the fifth game, the Middletown duo permitted the Zeeh's to win the next four points and capture the set, 6-4.

Kaback and Markovits never recovered as the Zeehs combined an exceptionally strong serve with good volleys and overhands to take the final set, 6-2.

GEORGE NEHER

Neher Returns To KHS Staff

By IRA FUSFELD

KINGSTON — When Kingston High School's varsity football team begins its non-contact pre-season drills August 23, George Neher will be back on the coaching staff.

Neher, 32, will be returning from a one-year leave of absence to resume his line coaching post on Tony Badalato's club. He replaces Floyd McCormick, who handled the position last season.

A graduate of Saugerties High School, where he played football, baseball, basketball, and track, Palo Verde College, and Ithaca College, Neher will be beginning his tenth year of football coaching.

Behind him are one year stints as freshman line coach at Ithaca, Shaker High in Lowenville, and Kingston. He has put in six years as the man in charge of the shock troops on the Kingston varsity.

McCormick will continue as KHS golf coach and take charge of the soccer program at the Bailey School.

The Kingston team will be coming off a 6-2 regular season mark with one post-season defeat. Several key players have since graduated, but Badalato is hoping that the experience gained by reserves in some of last year's early season routes will go along way in making up for the losses.

Rosie's Raiders, Love Bugs Leaders in Lassie League

SAUGERTIES — Rosie's Raiders edged Dit's Dollies 10-9 to maintain a half game edge over Pussycats, 16-1 winners over the Odd 19 in the American Division of the Saugerties Lassie Softball League.

Love Bugs won their ninth straight National Division victory, as Karen O'Reilly (5-0) blanked the Cuties 2-0. Second place Meiswinkel's (7-2) scored four runs in the bottom of the fourth to edge the Gold Diggers 12-11.

Laser Record Cool 24-1

BEACON — The Poughkeepse Lasers swept to the Northern Division title of the Hudson Valley Rookie League without the loss of a single game on the diamond, league statistician Nick Boonstra announced.

The powerful Lasers won the first half with a perfect 12-0 record, then took the second with a 12-1 mark. The only "loss" was the result of a forfeit when they were unable to field a team. The 24-1 standard is believed to be a league record.

Meanwhile, Valley Central Geminis and New Windsor Rockets will play off for the Southern Division title and the right to meet the Lasers in the championship playoff. No date has been set for the championships.

Valley Central was 6 and 4 in the first half. The Rockets came on strong in the second half, winning nine and losing three after a mediocre 2-9 rating in the first half.

Kingston Braves finished second to the Lasers in both rounds. Fred Davi's charges won 8 and lost 2 in the first round and were 6-3 in the second swing. Three of the five setbacks for the Braves came at the hands of the Lasers who won every game between the arch rivals.

Cornwall Missiles (3-7 and 6-5) were the runnersup with 9-12 record in the Southern loop.

League officials have not set a date for the inter-division championship series.

Lomontville BR Champs

STONE RIDGE — Jeff Purcell has been the Lomontville Fire Company's strong pitching arm in the Rondout Valley Babe Ruth League. And it was never more in evidence than in the championship game in which he shut out Walter Davenport Sons 9-0. He allowed only five hits, struck out 13 and walked three.

In a game prior to the titular tilt, Pat McEvoy and Ted Nadratowski combined to give Lomontville an 8-1 victory over Fann's Department Store. Ted allowed only three hits in the five-inning game and McEvoy was credited with the win.

Purcell accounted for two of the seven Lomontville hits in the championship game. Pat Salvatore also had two hits and Glenn Link tripled. Jay Schaeffer was charged with the loss.

Purcell stroked three singles against Fann's. Ted Nadratowski slammed a double and two singles and knocked in two runs.

IS YOUR CAR PASSING INSPECTION BUT FLUNKING LIFE?

The true test of a car's condition is not that it passes state inspection but rather how many annual inspections it's around to take. In Sweden, where the yearly government inspection covers about 200 points, Volvos have a life expectancy of 14 years. So if you think your car is just scraping by, get a Volvo from us. It's built to be more than just passable.

'No-Fault' for All States Is Proposed by Bar Assn.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The American Bar Association has proposed that all states provide "no-fault" automobile insurance — and that the federal government stay out.

The plan approved late Tuesday by the policy-setting House of Delegates would guarantee all injured drivers, passengers and pedestrians recovery of up to $2,000 in medical payments and lost wages without suing.

However, under a last-minute change, they would be free to sue for "pain and suffering." This provision weakened the "no-fault" proposal, although most of the accident suits that now clog the courts would become unnecessary.

The special ABA committee in charge of "no-fault" insurance had recommended that general damage suits be limited. If the injured person's medical and job losses were less than $500 he could recover only a matching amount by going to court.

The Massachusetts "no-fault" law, first in the nation, is even tougher in blocking "pain and suffering" suits. There can be none unless medical expenses exceeded $500.

Last week, the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws proposed a model law that would eliminate most suits for general damages and would provide lifetime compensation for lost wages up to $200 a week as well as unlimited medical payments.

The 315-member House also approved an amendment opposing any federal law on auto insurance. "Any change which may be made in the so-called automobile accident reparations system should be by state action," according to the provision.

The Senate last week shelved a tough federal law backed by Sens. Philip Hart of Michigan and Warren Magnuson of Washington by a 49-46 vote.

State Plans To Charge Employes' Fee

ALBANY ,N.Y. (UPI) — The scrimping along on a tight budget this year, hopes to save a lot of money by charging state employes $5 a month to park their cars at the office.

The Budget Division said recently, the plan, starting Sept. 1, will cover about 13,000 state workers.

Some 40 per cent of them already pay parking fees, but a budget spokesman said the receipts cover only 25 per cent of the cost of maintaining lots.

"We're not trying to make money on the deal," the spokesman said. He estimated that even if all 13,000 contribute, the lots still won't break even.

No sooner had the plan been announced than the Civil Service Employes Association, representing 140,000 state workers, said it would ask both the Office of Employe Relations and the Public Employment Relations Board to overrule it.

The charges, $5 for an open space and $10 for sheltered, will apply to both state - owned buildings and those where space is leased.

The state already runs two "park and ride" lots for employes to take buses to downtown Albany from the uptown campus and suburban Rensselaer.

INVITATION FOR BIDS

The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency will receive sealed bids under one contract for the demolition of buildings and structures and site clearance of certain parcels located within the boundaries of the Broadway East Urban Renewal Project No. N.Y. R-107, Kingston, New York, as shown on Drawing D-9-B.E., Demolition Map, and those located within the boundaries of the Uptown Urban Renewal Project No. N.Y. R-121, Kingston, New York, as shown on Drawing D-9-U., Demolition Map.

A list of parcels in both the Broadway East Urban Renewal Project and the Uptown Urban Renewal Project are on file in the office of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, 436 Broadway, Kingston, New York.

The proposal contains three (3) parcels in the Broadway East Urban Renewal Project and ten (10) parcels in the Uptown Urban Renewal Project for a total of thirteen (13) containing structures of various types and sizes including one, two, three, four, and five story brick, frame, or concrete block buildings of residential, retail, and multi-purpose usage as well as concrete block or frame garages, sheds, and other outbuildings.

The type, size, and location of these structures are indicated on the plans and identified in the specifications which are available to all bidders at the office of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, 436 Broadway, Kingston, New York.

Bid proposals will be received until 3:00 o'clock p.m., on the 25th day of August, 1972 at the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, 436 Broadway, Kingston, New York 12401.

Contract Documents, including Drawings and Technical Specifications, are on file at the office of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, 436 Broadway, Kingston, New York. Copies of the Contract Documents may be obtained by depositing Fifty ($50.00) Dollars with the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency for each set of documents so obtained. Each such deposit will be refunded if the Drawings and Contract Documents are returned in good condition within ten (10) days after the bid opening.

A certified check or bank draft, payable to the order of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, negotiable U.S. Government bonds, or a satisfactory Bid Bond executed by the bidder and an acceptable surety, in an amount equal to ten (10%) per cent of the estimated cost of demolition and site clearance, exclusive of any deductions for salvage, shall be submitted with each bid.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish and pay for satisfactory performance and payment bond or bonds in the amount of not less than one hundred (100%) per cent of the estimated amount. An acceptable surety company is anyone included in the latest issue of the U.S. Treasury Department Circular 570 listings.

Your Horoscope

Friday, August 18

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are all too apt to state some truth so badly that another with whom you want to keep on good terms takes offense. You then find you have made an opponent of one you never thought possible to have against you. But if you keep tactful and refrain from critical and unwise comments, you can hold such friendship with ease.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You want to go off to some new interest you know little about at the cost of present good set-up, so think twice and refrain. New contacts are fine, but don't shed current allies as a result. Keep poised.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Endeavoring to get out of some responsibility you have assumed could really cause you trouble today, so follow through instead and show you have real character. Use patience where mate is concerned. Forget that temper.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Troublesome matters with associates can be handled satisfactorily if you are willing to listen to their views more. Do nothing to start an argument. Forget that desire to be kingpin — remember it is a partnership.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Why don't you get right down to all that work you have on hand and be charming about it? This gets you back into the good graces of bigwigs. Taking health treatments simply is a must now.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You want to run off to fun places at the cost of important work, etc., so stop such mistaken thoughts and carry through wisely. Get into creative things during spare time. Derive much pleasure from them.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't let some unkind remark at home touch off a big argument, but take it in your stride, and quietly find out what brought it on. Keep busy at whatever it is you have to do. A show of wisdom pays off well.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Use diplomacy in dealing with others and you get along just fine, provided you show you enjoy them despite any pressures on either side. Drive with particular care, especially on the highways and byways. Think.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You are tempted to put all your eggs in one basket and could certainly regret it later, so think before you act. Steer clear of a business person who acts in a confusing manner. Show more affection for mate in p.m.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You had better think that plan over again before you make the radical changes you are tempted to make. Be sure you think before you speak, especially with higher-ups. Dont' say things you will have to retract later.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You need to get into behind-the-scenes work so you can take right action soon, so avoid public limelight. The latter could prove detrimental to your best interests now. Add to present security.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Rather than criticize good pals, be sure you pay compliments where due, then you make big headway with them. Get out to that social affair, but show courtesy and kindness to all. A fine new friend can be made.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make sure you do not argue with a powerful person, or make radical changes where your vocation is concerned, or you would soon regret it. Build up your credit. Get bills paid that are important.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who is a troubleshooter; teach early not to create problems just for the fun of solving them, but to wait until they actually arise before tackling them. Your offspring understands the underlying factors of any situation and therefore can remove the effects by getting at the cause. Give as fine an education as you can and slant it along such lines, whether boy or girl. Sports are a must here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

THREATENED: (Q.) I have a sister who thinks she can do anything she wants to. Every time I have money she says she's gonna tell on me that I did something wrong if I don't give it to her. I think it's very unfair. Please help me.—Penniless in Pennsylvania.

(A.) Your sister is wrong to blackmail you.

But you may be boastfully flashing money when you have some and trying to make her feel small because she has none. If you are doing this, stop it. Be quiet about any cash you have. Making a show of money, no matter how much or how little you have, is foolishly asking for trouble.

If you are being quiet about your money and your sister still threatens you, tell her to go ahead and tell your parents whatever she wants to. If she does, tell them about her threats, and how much she's taken from you. This should put and end to her game.

A NAME: (Q) I am three months pregnant. I have talked to my parents about it and they have agreed to let me keep the baby whether the boy marries me or not.

His name is Reginald. He is 18 and I am, too. He is undecided about what to do. I think he won't marry me. But I know I love him and if the baby is a boy I want to name it Reginald whether we get married or not. My parents say I shouldn't. What do you think?—Mother-To-Be in Maine.

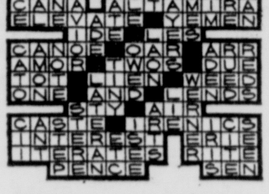

(A.) If Reginald doesn't marry you, you will be the one responsible for choosing a name. I believe, however, that naming the boy for his natural father in such a case might add to your problems and his.

A mother without a husband has plenty of problems, and her child has problems as he grows up. Think about the problems. Ask yourself again if adoption, with the adoptive parents choosing the child's name and giving hm their surname, too, might not be a wiser answer.

LEFTOVERS--Pssst . . . wanna buy some games, sweatshirts, used bumper stickers, patches and posters?

Stores are trying to get rid of leftover voter parphernalia. Although sweater manufacturers have kept the election-oriented items general enough to last, a few got stuck with their wares. McGovern-Eagleton '72 T-shirts might go on sale at half price. One chess set featured players representing Edmund Muskie and John Lindsay against a player taking the role of President Nixon. Needless to say that one isn't selling too well.

But less specific themes are holding up well. "Register Now" shirts, "Dump Nixon" buttons, "Dump all Democrats" buttons, "Vote" posters and general games on elections won't fade out before election time. A game called Landside has players, representing themselves, bid popular votes to accumulate electoral votes and the winner gets to be president. Some realistic details are included like vote stealing and backroom dealing for states among players.

Hopfully young voters will respond to this year's political activities with as much enthusiasm as the manufacturers have shown.

DOG'S NIGHT—Rock group Three Dog Night, winner of last year's Grammy Award, will have their first TV special on Aug. 24 over ABC-TV.

The 30-minute special will look at each musician in the group as they all prepare for their concerts. You'll also see scenes from their concerts and performances as well as off-stage preparations. The biggest treat on the show is a visit by Roberta Flack. Dick Clark will produce the show.

An Experiment on NBC

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Will enough television viewers stay up in the early yawning hours to watch a network variety show?

NBC is experimenting this weekend with a program which is called "The Midnight Special," even though it airs Saturday morning after the Friday night Johnny Carson Show.

The one-shot special will air on most NBC stations from 1 a.m. to 2:30. If any regularly scheduled network show has ever appeared at such an hour, nobody can remember it.

The man behind "The Midnight Special" is television packager Burt Sugarman. He told how the show originated:

"For a couple of years, Syd Vennedge of Grey Adventising in New York had been talking to me about it. Finally I decided to look into it.

"NBC in New York puts on a movie after the Johnny Carson Show, and some of the other affilliates do. NBC in Los Angeles and most other cities go black. But NBC research has discovered that there is a potential audience at that hour of 3.4 million homes.

'Our aim was to reach for the 18-33 age bracket, the young married and daters who attend concerts and movies, but don't watch much television. They are a very desirable market for advertisers, but there aren't enough of them to warrant a show in prime time.'

Sugarman went after advertisers first, lining up such sponsors as Eastman Kodak, Seven-Up, Noxell, West Tab and Clairol. With such bankrollers on hand, NBC said, 'Let's do it." The advantage to the advertiser is obvious: sponsorship rates are much cheaper at the early morning hour.

The network also has the built-in advantage of filling time that would normally be blank or local.

Sugarman said he had received much cooperation from record companies and talent agencies; the advantages to them of a new market is obvious, too.

John Denver, the folk artist, will emcee "The Midnight Special." Among the performers: comedians Mort Sahl, and the teams of Harrison and Tyler, Patchett and Tarses; record stars "Mama" Cass Elliot, David Clayton-Thomas, the Everly Brothers, Harry Chapin, the groups called War and Argent, the Isley Brothers.

"The Midnight Special" was taped earlier this week at NBC Burbank studios.

"We'll have a Nielsen overnight rating and within two weeks a national rating on the show," added Sugarman. "If the numbers are right, we hope to be on weekly starting in September—and maybe Saturday night as well as Friday."

Opening lead—♠ 9

By Oswald and James Jacoby

When a raise to one trick from game may be passed it stands to reason that the jump to game must be stronger. When the raise cannot be passed the bid becomes a dual type. It may be a very weak bid or it may be the start of a slam sequence.

North's three-space call was one of these temporizing bids. He just wanted to hear South rebid to four spades, to show that he really had spades and wasn't making some ultra fancy forcing bid.

South did rebid to four spades and then North took full charge. He used Blackwood to check on aces and kings and finally went to seven spades on the theory that one of his partner's kings just had to be in spades and it didn't really matter where the other two showed up.

South won the spade lead in his own hand and quickly counted 12 top tricks. The 13th would come if he could just ruff a heart in his hand or a diamond in dummy. He was looking at a total of just five hearts as against six diamonds so at trick two he led a heart to dummy's ace; then he ruffed a heart high and drew trumps. The 4-1 break did not bother him since he had started with five top trumps in the combined hands.

Then he spread his hand to claim the balance.

Defense Minister Commits Suicide After Abortive Coup on King Hussan

RABAT, Morocco (UPI)—Moroccan Defense Minister Gen. Mohamed Oufkir committed suicide today following an abortive coup attempt on King Hassan II by rebel air force pilots, the government announced.

Oufkir, credited with restoring order in the North African country after an assassination attempt against Hassan last year, put a bullet through his head shortly after midnight, an announcement by the semiofficial Maghreb Arab Press said.

Oufkir was given sweeping powers by Hassan following last year's coup attempt and was generally regarded as the second most powerful figure in Moroccan politics behind the king himself.

Moroccan jet fighter pilots riddled Hassan's unarmed jetliner with machine gun bullets Wednesday, then strafed the capital's air terminal and the royal palace in the futile coup attempt.

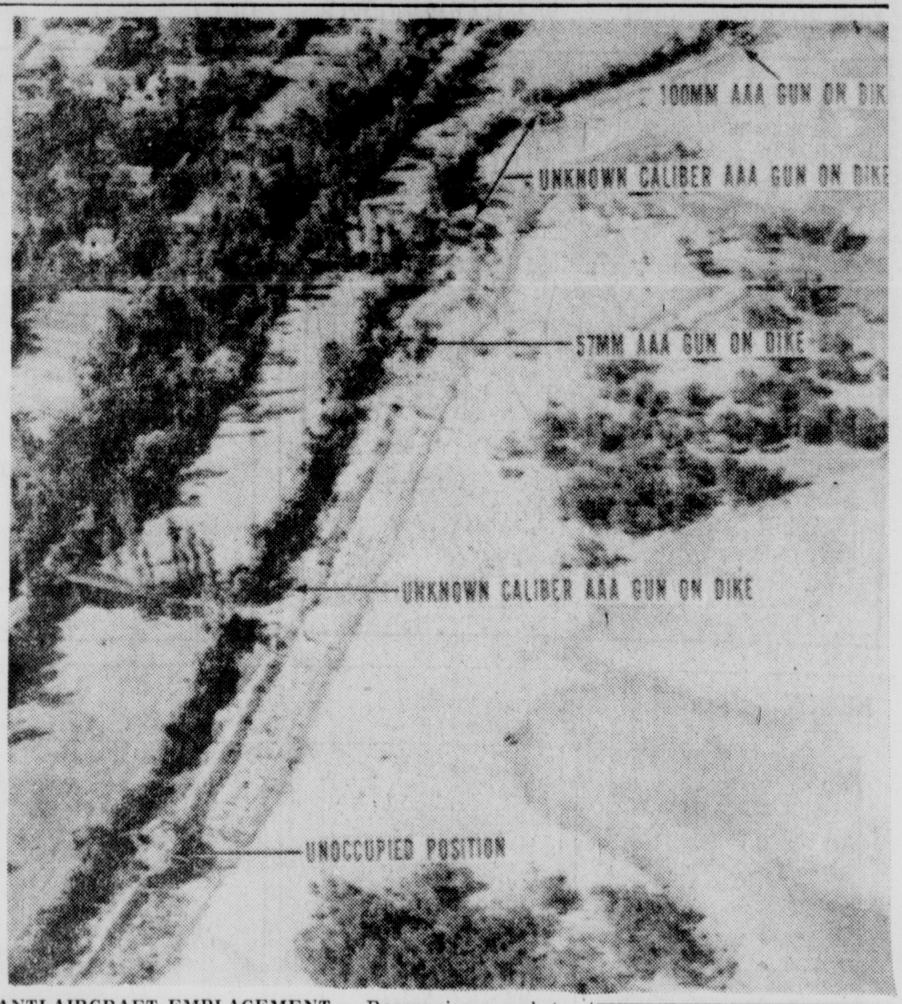

A Moroccan Foreign Ministry announcement said the 727 jet carrying the king and his 70-member entourage on a return trip from a visit to France landed safely at the capital's Rabat-Sale Airport although two of the airliner's three jet engines were knocked out in the attack.

The Foreign Ministry said the coup attempt, the second against the 42-year-old king in 13 months, began when Moroccan Air Force pilots flying three American-built F5 jets on an escort mission opened fire on his airliner over the coastal city of Tetouran in Moroccan territory.

After Hassan's plane landed, he was sheltered in a small clump of trees about 50 yards from the airport's terminal building. Witnesses said the rebel pilots then swept over the airfield at 300 feet, firing rockets and machine-gun bullets into the terminal's honor salon. Although officials admitted to only "some injuries," witnesses said at least four bystanders were killed and 20 injured in the airport attack.

It left parked cars ablaze and exploding when bullets hit their fuel tanks. The honor salon, where Hassan had greeted his young children a few minutes earlier, was badly damaged.

The king then summoned an emergency cabinet session at his royal palace on the outskirts of Rabat. Robert Behrens, a spokesman at the U.S. Embassy, said four to six fighters tried to rocket the palace but antiaircraft guns guarding the building started firing and at least one loyal pilot took to the air and opened fire to drive away the attackers.

U.S. Planes in Heavy Bombing Strikes

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. warplanes flew the heaviest bombing missions of the renewed air war against North Vietnam Wednesday, the U.S. command said today.

Spokesmen said 370 raids by jet fighter-bombers and another eight missions by Strategic Air Command B52 Stratofortresses hit North Vietnam Wednesday. Jet fighters struck within 13 miles of Hanoi, "damaging" a radar site south of the capital city.

The northernmost raids ended at 5 p.m., just before the arrival of President Nixon's foreign affairs adviser Henry A. Kissinger sparked rumors of a new U.S. peace plan for Indochina.

Kissinger spent all of this morning and early afternoon in secret briefings with U.S. military and civilian officers in Saigon, then was whisked to the Independence Palace of President Nguyen Van Thieu for a meeting.

Four Americans were reported killed in action in the Vietnam war last week, six more were missing in action and seven died of non-hostile causes, the U.S. Command announced today. Another 28 Americans were wounded.

South Vietnamese spokesmen said their losses last week were the most in four weeks, with 763 men killed in action, 2,489 wounded and 151 missing. The toll contrasted sharply with the previous week when reported government casualties were 463 killed, 2,115 wounded and 114 missing — the lowest since the North Vietnamese offensive.

The Saigon command claimed 3,099 enemy troops were killed last week, the most in five weeks.

The allied commands now have announced these total casualties for the war:

American — 45,847 killed in action, 1,651 missing, 303,322 wounded, 10,253 dead from non-hostile causes.

South Vietnamese — 152,806 killed in action, 396,305 wounded.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong — 873,480 killed.

New Communist assaults were reported throughout South Vietnam today, and were heaviest in the area of embattled Quang Tri Province capital 404 miles north of Saigon, field reports and official spokesmen said.

A U.S. adviser was wounded Wednesday in heavy North Vietnamese artillery and rocket attacks in and around Quang Tri, and heavy fighting left at least 200 Communists and 25 government troops dead, spokesmen said.

UPI reporter Ted Kurrus said that the North Vietnamese made a new attempt to cut vital Highway 1 between Quang Tri and Hue, 32 miles to the south, by shelling a newly built bridge at My Chanh, halfway between the two province capitals.

Clark Tells of POW Fears

WASHINGTON (UPI)—American prisoners of war interviewed by Ramsey Clark near Hanoi last week expressed fears the U.S. government was making it difficult for them to exchange mail with their families.

It just seems it is possible our government is making it extremely difficult for our families, our folks, to write us and to receive mail from us, which is hard to believe," one prisoner told the former Democratic attorney general.

The prisoner was not identified by name, but his remarks were recorded in a two-hour conversation Clark said he had with 10 U.S. captives Aug. 10 when Clark was in North Vietnam.

ABC News broadcast highlights from the session in a special radio program Wednesday.

All of the prisoners whose voices were recorded on the tape told Clark they had been well treated by the North Vietnamese. They said they received good medical treatment and got plenty of exercise.

They said they spent their time exercising, cleaning their quarters, gardening or reading and mentioned they had started a bridge tournament. Their reading material included the Pentagon Papers." One said they had to take shelter three to five times a day because of American air raids.

And one expressed fear "small antiwar action" some of the prisoners had taken would bring retaliation against them when they are repatriated.

The prisoners appeared to be fairly well up to date on happenings in the United States. They knew of the nomination of Sen. George S. McGovern for president but asked what had happened to Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, McGovern's first running mate who was removed from the ticket.

The captives identified themselves by name on the tape when they told of their treatment, but they were not identified when they talked about the mail problem.

One man said he went the first two years of his captivity without receiving mail. He said the prisoners were allowed to write letters once a month and were assured by the North Vietnamese that the letters were sent.

Nixon Defense Budget Rules Out Troop Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration's next defense budget, now being shaped, rules out any significant cut in U.S. troop strength in Europe at least until mid-1974.

That budget will go to Congress in January, whether or not Sen. George McGovern wins the presidency.

However, a new McGovern administration would change the outgoing Republican's proposals — and McGovern is on record as favoring a slash in the U.S. troop committment in Europe, from the present 305,000 to about 130,000 men.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird's plans to maintain U.S. troop levels in Europe during fiscal 1974 are subject to change if there is agreement between NATO and the Russian-led Warsaw Pact nations on mutual force reductions.

About 190,000 U.S. Army troops, 70,000 Air Force men and 45,000 Navy personnel are stationed in the European area, including the 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean.

McGovern takes the position that American forces in Europe can be reduced safely by more than half "because of the capability for rapid redeployment (from the United States) in the case of attack or ominous enemy buildup" and because the NATO allies "can marshal clear numerical superiority for the initial stages of any conflict."

In mid-July, the Senate Armed Services Committee contended in a formal report that what is called the "newly affluent European nations" should pay more to defray the heavy costs of stationing American troops in Europe.
